11 Known Dead As Storms Rip 'Tornado Alley'

Injury Toll High In South Illinois, Missouri Areas

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (AP) — Unseasonal tornadoes Wednesday brought death to 11 persons in the stricken areas of southern Illinois and eastern Missouri.

The vicious twisters struck late in the day, creating an appalling toll of injuries and destruction. The big cleanup job started today.

Ten fatalities were reported in this southern Illinois area and another in Missouri. More than 100 persons were hurt, at least 80 in Murphysboro and Mount Vernon, Ill., alone.

Destruction was greatest in Mount Vernon as the twisters slammed through the "Tornado Alley" of southern Illinois. Between 75 and 100 homes were destroyed or badly damaged in Mount Vernon.

But Murphysboro had the greatest human misery.

HERE NINE persons died and workers dug through debris in search of others. At least 35 others were hospitalized. Thirty homes were destroyed, 15 by fires which followed the winds.

In addition, nearly a score of other towns reported injuries or damage by the violent late autumn weather.

The tornado which struck Murphysboro shortly before 5 p. m. was described by a journalism professor as a giant fist smashing through the city, killing, maiming, destroying.

James L. C. Ford, of Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, said as he watched the black funnel-shaped cloud form, "there came a roaring like an express train."

A hailstorm followed, with stones the size of eggs, Ford said.

"Suddenly trees were smashed like tenpins," Ford said. "I saw a row of five houses crushed as though by a giant fist. As soon as the roar of the storm passed, there was another sound, the wailing of fire engines.

"There was no panic. People were numbed, standing around shaking their heads. It looks like this will be a pretty sad Christmas for our folks."

Thus this Southern Illinois section again has offered tragic evidence of the reason it is called "Tornado Alley." Mostly because of twisters which regularly churn through the area, the Weather Bureau ranks Illinois as a whole the country's over-all leader in tornado deaths.

The deadliest tornado in the nation's history centered in Southern Illinois on March 18, 1925. That vast twister killed 689 persons in Missouri, Illinois and Indiana with 606 of them in Illinois. Damage was listed at $16½ million.

Alert Possibility Here

There was "a possibility of tornado alerts" in the Dayton-Washington C. H. area from dusk Wednesday until 4 a. m. Thursday. The Weather Bureau advised. Any danger was over at daybreak, however. Aside from blustering winds and occasionally heavy rain there was nothing to suggest the vicious storms which occurred in the western section of the Ohio Valley.

BIS Escapee Nabbed After Speedy Chase

MOUNT VERNON (AP)—An escapee from the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster led police on a wild chase Wednesday night until the stolen auto he was driving at speeds up to 120 m.p.h. rolled over six times in a field south of nearby Centerburg.

Fur Thief Is Fussy

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Ethlyn Haney of nearby Ft. Thomas has her coat back. The $500 fur was returned by mail to the cafe where it was stolen. Attached to the box was the note: "It don't fit me Please return to owner."

We'd Like To 'Go Home for Christmas'

DEAR SANTA CLAUS:

There are 10 of us out here, and every one of us would like to feel needed to show our instinctive loyalty to a good master or mistress to romp with boys and girls who would treat us well and give us a sense of security. We're all healthy, too.

We range all the way from a 3 month old puppy to a 10-year-old grandmother and you could have any one of us as a Christmas gift for just $4 that's $2 for our board bill and $2 for a 1958 license.

Just call our present fine "boss" he's County Dog Warden Reginald (Chink) Davis whose phone number is 3-6641. He'll tell you all about us.

"My friends call me Honey. I'm 5 years old and my name comes from my white with tan markings. My background is mighty good, and I'm just about the finest collie around. I'm real gentle with children, and I really hope I can find some before Christmas. I'd make them real happy -- and I'd be happy, too."

"My name is really Buffie III -- and don't just take my word for it -- I've got registered papers to prove it. But you see, I'm just an old lady cocker spaniel and I don't have any home. I'll have to admit my age, I guess -- well, I'm about 10 years old. What I need is a little security -- just a nice home in which I can spend my last years."

"I don't have any name yet. You see, I'm only about 7 months old. Might be I have a little border collie somewhere in my background, but most people just say I'm a black and white long-haired mongrel. I'm a girl puppy -- and I'd just love to have a couple of youngsters for Christmas."

Supreme Court Upholds Disbarment of Crow

The Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday unanimously upheld the disbarment of J. Harvey Crow, Urbana attorney, who has, in times past, been a frequent practitioner in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Crow had appealed from a May 14, 1955, disbarment order handed down by a three-judge court in Champaign County, Judge John P. Case of Fayette County was a member of the original trial court.

The disbarment followed complaints by a committee of attorneys over Crow's handling of divorce cases and other matters.

An appellate court upheld the disbarment and the Supreme Court dismissed Crow's appeal.

* * *

CROW argued his own case at an oral hearing last week on his appeal to the high court. He claimed the action should have been lodged against him in Cleveland and that he should receive another trial.

Counsel for the committee said Crow had received adequate consideration of his case and urged the Supreme Court to uphold decisions of the lower court. He said 19 different judges presided at various court proceedings in the case, "an all-time record in Ohio."

Crow previously was disbarred in Stark County in 1935 and reinstated in 1949.

* * *

OTHER MEMBERS of the original trial court were Judge Charles Kirk of Fayette County and Judge Paul Dull of Mercer County.

The Second District Court of Appeals granted Crow's motion for stay of execution of the judgment. The Second District court then stepped aside and three judges from other Ohio appellate courts remanded the case to the original trial court for findings of fact and conclusions of law.

* * *

THE TRIAL COURT, on Aug. 16, 1956, reentered the judgment of disbarment and again the Second District Court of Appeals granted a stay of execution.

When the Second District court again stepped aside, members of the Ninth District appellate court, sitting as the Second District court, affirmed the original trial court judgment on May 24, 1957, when actual disbarment became effective.

On June 19, the Ohio Supreme Court refused to grant another stay of execution.

Atom-Generated Electrical Power Flows from New Plant

SHIPPINGPORT, Pa. (AP)—Atom-generated electricity surged from the world's first full-scale completely commercial nuclear power station today.

Jack Waugaman, 37, of nearby Hookstown, Pa., was the "man of the hour" when the historic $110 million plant produced its first electricity for homes, shops and factories from splitting uranium atoms.

Waugaman closed the switch on an intricate control panel that sent power flowing from the station's turbine generator into Duquesne Light Co.'s regular system Wednesday.

"It was my job," said Waugaman matter-of-factly when asked his reaction. "I didn't analyze my feelings at the time. Maybe I was just too busy, but come to think of it that must have been a pretty significant thing."

Called a switchboard operator, Waugaman mans the plant's electrical control board on the midnight to 8 a.m. shift. His chief job is seeing that the power flows into the company's lines properly, a highly technical operation.

* * *

WHEN WAUGAMAN first touched the control switch at 12:39 a.m. only 5,000 kilowatts of electricity pulsed into Duquesne Light's system.

During the day this was stepped up to 20,000 and a company spokesman said full operating capacity of 60,000 kilowatts is to be reached in a few days. That is sufficient to supply the residential needs of a community of 250,000 population.

Shippingport, 25 miles northwest of Pittsburgh, is the nation's only large-scale atomic power plant and the second in the world. The other is in England. It supplies commercial electricity but its main purpose is production of plutonium for military uses.

Frenchman's Death Trial Nearing Jury

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — The murder trial of Maurice Chavigny, handsome 44-year-old Frenchman charged with killing a retired Army general and his wife, goes to the jury today.

Judge John U. Bird of Pinellas County Circuit Court indicated jurors would start deliberating the case by early afternoon. Summation by opposing counsel and the judge's instructions to the 12-man jury were scheduled for the opening of the session.

Chavigny testified Wednesday that Brig. Gen. Wilbur R. McReynolds shot his own wife to death and then Chavigny killed the general. The shootings took place April 3 in St. Petersburg.

Chavigny said McReynolds, 64, and retired, killed Mrs. McReynolds, 61, during a quarrel over the Frenchman, their chauffeur.

"He came to get my gun and I shoot, shoot, shoot," Chavigny said through an interpreter.

On the night of the shootings, Chavigny testified, he put on his uniform and planned to leave the McReynolds home and commit suicide because immigration authorities had refused to renew his visa and were going to deport him.

Ohio Patrolman Shot 5 Times

New Yorker Is Held; Cop's Wounds Minor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One Buffalo, N. Y., man is in custody and another is being sought for questioning in the shooting early today of an Ohio highway patrolman at a drive-in restaurant on U.S. 40 west of here.

Patrolman Augustine P. Giuffre, 39, of Columbus, is in good condition despite five bullet wounds, a spokesman at Mt. Carmel Hospital here said. He was shot twice in the chest, twice in the upper left arm and once in the left wrist.

Most of the wounds are superficial, but a bullet had to be removed from the wrist.

Patrolman N. D. Matthias and auxiliary patrolman Clyde Coe arrested James Myers, 20, of Buffalo. They said they pursued him from a roadblock at Reynoldsburg, east of Columbus, to a quarter mile west of Kirkersville, where the convertible he was driving ran off the road at some construction work.

Patrol headquarters said Myers said Frank Ashley, about 26, also of Buffalo, was with him in the convertible. Patrolmen said the car was stolen.

Looks Like Another Christmas in Jail

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Edmund R. Jackson of Tulsa says he's spent the last 20 Christmases in jail instead of with his family and it looks like next Wednesday will be No. 21.

Jackson faces a larceny charge at Tulsa, but last week he talked District Judge W. Lee Johnson into delaying his trial until Dec. 27 so he could spend Christmas at home. Wednesday he was back in jail, this time as a suspect in three recent burglaries.

NATO Stands Firm On Arming of West

PARIS (AP)—The 15 NATO government chiefs ended their summit conference today with a firm decision to arm Western Europe against Russia's nuclear missile might and an appeal to Moscow to resume disarmament negotiations with the West.

Blame for the decision to base American medium range missiles and stock U.S. nuclear warheads in Europe was put squarely on Russia. A communique said the Soviet Union is giving "the most modern weapons" to its armed forces, and so the West must do so, too.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles brought the 14 other nations around to their concept that the alliance must publicly declare its intention to base intermediate range ballistic missiles — in continental Europe and with stockpiles of nuclear warheads at hand in case of war.

But to win this, the American leaders had to consent to a new attempt to end the cold war through negotiations with the Kremlin.

The NATO leaders expressed their desire to promote disarmament negotiations with the Russians, preferably within the framework of the United Nations.

* * *

BUT "SHOULD the Soviet Union refuse to participate in the work of the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee," the communique continued, "we would welcome a meeting at the foreign ministers level to resolve the deadlock."

Russia announced during the recently concluded U. N. Assembly that it would no longer negotiate in the five-nation subcommittee because it was 4-1 against her.

Major points in the final communique:

1. While committed to a common defense, NATO nations stand "ready to discuss any reasonable proposal" to ease world tensions and promote peace and progress.

2. Communist rulers have given "clear warning" of determination to dominate the world by subversion or force. The Atlantic Allies "will never yield to such a threat."

3. There is a growing desire for freedom in the Communist countries and "if the free nations are steadfast, the totalitarian menace that now confronts them will eventually recede."

4. Since Russia's aims are worldwide, the free world must organize its resources on the same basis, and NATO must take account of developments outside its own European-North American area.

5. The NATO governments stand by their declaration on the security of West Berlin and call upon the Soviet government to live up to its Geneva 1955 pledge to unify

Christmas Party Spoiled

Marion School Looted Of Gifts for Pupils

Burglars at the Marion School Wednesday night weren't content with hauling off an estimated $500 worth of loot — they tried to break up the school's annual Christmas party, as well.

Fourteen Christmas presents purchased by third grade children for their friends, were taken along with the rest of the haul.

The presents had been brought to the school by the little tots in advance of the school Christmas party, to be held Friday afternoon.

"I don't know what good they'd be to a burglar," Mrs. Willard Bitzer, the principal, commented Thursday morning.

* * *

ALSO IN THE HAUL were 84 dinner plates, new last fall, used in the school dining hall. The children and teachers had to eat off paper plates Thursday because of the burglary.

Also stolen were the school bell timing apparatus, which was pried loose from a wall in a school room, a table-model radio and a motion picture projector, valued new at around $400.

All the change in the school was taken, Mrs. Bitzer said, but she added that the total amount was not more than a dollar.

Following the pattern of robbery at the Olive School, Route 62, south, the night before, burglars broke the glass out of a back door and unlocked it from inside. All the teacher's desks had been ransacked.

Deputy Sheriff Donald Thompson said the door was intact when he checked the school at 11:30 p. m. He discovered the break on his next check, about 2 a. m.

Ronald Polk, 17 Caught in Stone Conveyor Belt

Tragedy Occurs At Sugar Creek Late Wednesday

While his father worked unknowing nearby, a teen-aged Washington C. H. boy was crushed to death in a conveyer apparatus at the Sugar Creek Stone Quarry, Route 70, south, Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Edwin R. Davis, deputy county coronor, identified the youth as Ronald Duane (Butch) Polk, 17, a stone quarry employee son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Polk of 416 E. Paint St.

Dr. Davis said Polk died almost instantly of head wounds he sustained when he was crushed between the conveyer and its own support framework.

There were no witnesses to the accident, but Charles Armbrust, coproprietor of the quarry, said the boy had climbed a ladder to clean mud and dirt from the conveyer belt, Sheriff Orland Hays said.

He, apparently, became entangled with the moving belt and dragged forward several feet to one of several support towers that holds the belt off the ground, the sheriff said.

* * *

POLK'S FATHER, an employee of the quarry for about four years, theorized the boy may have turned off the belt and then started cleaning before it stopped moving.

The belt carries stone from the floor of the quarry several hundred yards uphill to a stone crusher. The boy's ladder was leaning against the framework about a quarter of the way from the upper end.

Armbrust, who discovered the accident, said the boy was alone only a few minutes. An ambulance was called, but there were strong indications the youth was dead before the body was discovered.

It took about half an hour to extricate the youth's body from the conveyer mechanism.

Sight of Food Brings Tears to Georgia Man, 61

ATLANTA, Ga (AP) — Instead of making his mouth water, the sight of food brings tears to 61-year-old David Daugherty.

Salivary glands are those ducts provided by nature to make the mouth water.

"Now I see some better in my right eye," the Negro said, "except when I look at food. Then the tears start running down my face."

Doctors at Grady Memorial Hospital said a similar operation will be performed on the other eye.

"I don't know what good they'd be to a burglar," Mrs. Willard Bitzer, the principal, commented Thursday morning.

ALSO IN THE HAUL were 84 dinner plates, new last fall, used in the school dining hall. The children and teachers had to eat off paper plates Thursday because of the burglary.

Also stolen were the school bell timing apparatus, which was pried loose from a wall in a school room, a table-model radio and a motion picture projector, valued new at around $400.

All the change in the school was taken, Mrs. Bitzer said, but she added that the total amount was not more than a dollar.

Following the pattern of robbery at the Olive School, Route 62, south, the night before, burglars broke the glass out of a back door and unlocked it from inside. All the teacher's desks had been ransacked.

Deputy Sheriff Donald Thompson said the door was intact when he checked the school at 11:30 p. m. He discovered the break on his next check, about 2 a. m.

Ronald Polk, 17 Caught in Stone Conveyor Belt

Tragedy Occurs At Sugar Creek Late Wednesday

While his father worked unknowing nearby, a teen-aged Washington C. H. boy was crushed to death in a conveyer apparatus at the Sugar Creek Stone Quarry, Route 70, south, Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Edwin R. Davis, deputy county coronor, identified the youth as Ronald Duane (Butch) Polk, 17, a stone quarry employee son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Polk of 416 E. Paint St.

Dr. Davis said Polk died almost instantly of head wounds he sustained when he was crushed between the conveyer and its own support framework.

There were no witnesses to the accident, but Charles Armbrust, coproprietor of the quarry, said the boy had climbed a ladder to clean mud and dirt from the conveyer belt, Sheriff Orland Hays said.

He, apparently, became entangled with the moving belt and dragged forward several feet to one of several support towers that holds the belt off the ground, the sheriff said.

* * *

POLK'S FATHER, an employee of the quarry for about four years, theorized the boy may have turned off the belt and then started cleaning before it stopped moving.

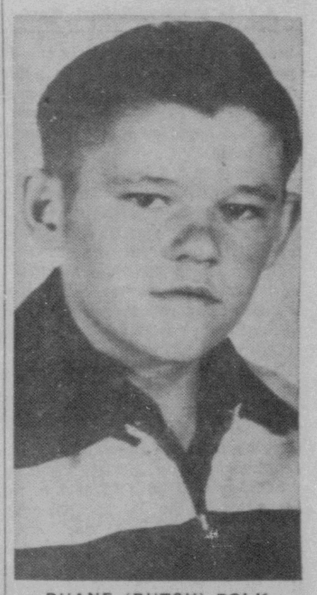

The belt carries stone from the floor of the quarry several hundred yards uphill to a stone crusher. The boy's ladder was leaning against the framework about a quarter of the way from the upper end.

Armbrust, who discovered the accident, said the boy was alone only a few minutes. An ambulance was called, but there were strong indications the youth was dead before the body was discovered.

It took about half an hour to extricate the youth's body from the conveyer mechanism.

BORN IN HILLSBORO, the youth came here about a year ago from Bainbridge with the family.

He went to work at the stone quarry in June and has worked there fairly regularly ever since. He had done the cleaning task "many times" before, it was said.

Sight of Food Brings Tears to Georgia Man, 61

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Instead of making his mouth water, the sight of food brings tears to 61-year-old David Daugherty.

Salivary glands are those ducts provided by nature to make the mouth water.

"Now I see some better in my right eye," the Negro said, "except when I look at food. Then the tears start running down my face."

Doctors at Grady Memorial Hospital said a similar operation will be performed on the other eye.

BIS Escapee Nabbed After Speedy Chase

MOUNT VERNON (AP)—An escapee from the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster led police on a wild chase Wednesday night until the stolen auto he was driving at speeds up to 120 m.p.h. rolled over six times in a field south of nearby Centerburg.

Fur Thief Is Fussy

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Ethlyn Haney of nearby Ft. Thomas has her coat back. The $500 fur was returned by mail to the cafe where it was stolen. Attached to the box was the note: "It don't fit me. Please return to owner."

Singing, Acting In Jeff Program

Over 100 Children In Holiday Show

A short play, a choral singing exercise, a pageant, and a variety of musical numbers will highlight the annual pageant of the Jeffersonville School children in the school house at 8 p. m. Thursday.

Mrs. Frances Core will direct the program, which will feature more than 100 youngsters.

"O Little Town of Bethlehem," a play set in the office of the keeper of records in heaven, will open the program, with the fifth grade youngsters taking the parts, and fourth grade children acting as a chorus.

Jackie Janes will play the keeper of records and Billie Baird, his young assistant. Iva Jane Bunch will be Gabriel, while Stephen Jacks will take the part of the messenger. The keeper of the stars will be Douglas LeValley, and Tommy Lovett will be the choirmaster.

The combined first grade will sing "Jingle, Jingle," "Christmas Dollies," and "Santa Is Coming." Teachers assisting are Mrs. Darle Lemley and Mrs. Avannell Zimmerman.

* * *

MRS. ROZELLA Binegar and Mrs. Gladys Cherryholmes and second grade teachers assisting in the presentation of the combined second grade, singing "Oh Christmas Tree" and "The Bells."

Fourth and fifth grade children featured in a choral speaking group include Terry McBee, David Owens, Janet Long and Anita Sams. The teacher is Mrs. Lela Pheanis.

Featured in a nativity pageant by the combined third grades will be Johnny Phillips, Mary Owens, Gary McBee, Glenn Williams, Roger Zimmerman, Ronnie West, Ronnie Smith, Kenneth Hahn, Natalie Cox, Barbara Sanderson, Mary Kay Bunch and Diana Upp. The third grade chorus will sing, and Mrs. Mildred Hall and Miss Eleanor Vanniman will assist.

A twin brother, Robert Wayne Polk, also worked at the quarry before enlisting in the armed services about eight weeks ago. The brother has been taking basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky., and was due home on leave Wednesday night.

Because of a delay in his release from Ft. Knox, he had not arrived by late Thursday morning and his mother said he apparently knew nothing of the accident.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Polk are Hillsboro natives, but the family has lived, during recent years, in Springfield as well as Bainbridge. Hillsboro and Washington C. H.

Surviving, besides the parents and the twin, are a brother, Gary; a sister, Joy; and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Diven of New Petersburg (Highland County).

Services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in the D. M. Evans Funeral Home, Hillsboro, where friends may call after noon Friday. The Rev. Berry Kennedy of the South Side Church of Christ will officiate. Burial will be in Hillsboro Cemetery.

What Language Spoken on Moon?

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — What language will the first human on the moon speak?

This question came up Wednesday at a news conference with 17 physicists from 10 nations attending a science meeting at Stanford University. The scientists were quick with answers:

M. M. Levy from the University of Paris suggested that "broken English is a good guess."

Countered L.R.B. Elton of Kings College in London:

Stock Mart Trading Active And Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market did a quick turnabout today with prices higher and trading active early this afternoon.

Steels, motors, coppers aircrafts and other groups went ahead after an irregularly lower start.

Key stocks showed gains from fractions to about two points but some of the gains were trimmed below their best.

In early trading most changes were narrow and losers outnumbered gainers about two-to-one, though the declines were slight they were enough to set new 1957 lows for such stocks as U. S. Steel, General Motors and Youngstown Sheet.

The quick reversal, brokers said, was purely technical, based on no particular news development.

Youngstown rebounded with a two-point gain and then paring away a fraction. Texas Co. was ahead about two.

U. S. Steel was ahead a major fraction and General Motors a small fraction as they bounced upward from their new lows.

Gains of about a point were made by Chrysler, Goodrich, Caterpillar, Boeing, Alcoa and Allied Chemical.

Southern Railway, Baltimore & O Ohio were mainly steady.

Among gainers were Ford, Consolidated Edison and Standard oil (New Jersey).

U. S. government bonds rose.

Patrolman Shot

ed officer was patrolling U. S. 40 about four miles west of the Columbus city limits when he saw a car parked behind the drive-in restaurant and a man trying to get in the front door. He approached the man, removed a revolver the man was carrying, and started to march him around the restaurant to the car parked behind it.

At that point, someone in or near the car opened fire on the patrolman, and the man he was holding fled, the patrol said. They said there is some question whether the man jumped in the car or fled on foot.

The car was driven away and patrolman Gluffre followed it until he realized he had been wounded more than once, the patrol said. He radioed for help and drove to Prairie Twp. volunteer fire station for assistance.

The patrol said Myers told them he and his companion drove east into Columbus, tried unsuccessfully to rob a used car lot, and finally stole a panel truck from a service station. They drove to another car lot and took the convertible which crashed near Kirkersville, patrolmen were told.

Who actually did the shooting has not been determined.

School Luncheon Prices Increased In Miami Trace

Loss of Eyman Fund Aid, Government Commodities Cited

The Miami Trace Board of Education Wednesday night raised the price of luncheons in the 12 school cafeterias from 25 cents to 30 cents for children and from 35 to 40 cents for adults.

Board members pointed out that they were taking the action "of necessity".

The resolution stated that the increase was necessary because "Miami Trace Local District has been deprived of substantial aid from the Eyman Estate Fund which in past years has assisted greatly in providing free luncheons for needy school children" and because the quantity of government surplus commodities provided for schools has been greatly reduced."

Mrs. Senath Thompson, board clerk, said that only $500 was received from Eyman Estate funds last year as compared with $1,250 the previous year. Assistance from the fund has reached as much as $3,000 annually in past years.

* * *

THE BOARD voted to seek estimates for repairs and redecoration of the Bloomingburg school auditorium and approved the Milledgeville Bank at Jeffersonville as a depository for payroll funds for the next two years.

It was announced that William A. Haines, vocational agriculture teacher at Jeffersonville who has been on leave of absence because of illness since the opening of school, will return to his duties Jan. 2.

The teacher commended Ralph Fordyce who has been acting as relief voag teacher.

The board also approved a monthly payroll of $47,712 and paid current bills to the amount of $7,706.

Dairy Props Due for Cut On April 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson announced Wednesday government price supports for dairy products will be reduced to the legal minimum beginning next April 1.

Benson told a news conference the change should bring about reductions in retail prices of about 2½ cents a pound for butter and for cheese and ½ cent a quart for fluid milk.

The minimum price support, under farm law, is 75 per cent of the parity price of milk and butterfat. Milk used for manufacturing purposes is now being supported at 83 per cent of parity and butterfat at 80 per cent.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

Benson said the cut in dairy supports has been recommended by the 18-member bipartisan National Agricultural Advisory Commission and the five-man advisory board of the Commodity Credit Corp., the agency which finances price support operations.

Specific dollars and cents price suport rates for manufacturing milk and butterfat and the purchase prices for products made from them will be announced late in March on the basis of the parity price prevailing then.

Under the present support program, the government buys butter, cheese and dried milk at prices designed to enable processors to pay dairymen at least $3.25 a hundredweight for milk and 58.6 cents a pound for butterfat.

He Obeys Siren, Pays Unusual 'Fine'

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A Tulsa motorist heard a siren Wednesday and thought he should obey by pulling over to the curb.

Hurley Mitchell told the sheriff's office two men pulled up in a late model car after sounding the siren. One asked for his driver's license and when Mitchell handed it over along with his billfold containing $123, the man said: "Well, you're not the one, but I'll just keep this."

There wasn't much to do, Mitchell said, because the man pointed a pistol at him, then drove away in the car with his companion.

West European Statesmen Show 'New Life' at NATO

Old friends and a new face posed problems U.S. diplomacy has not had to face in Europe so long as America alone could guarantee defense against the Russians.

The men who made the key moves in the talks were Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen and two old pals of the United States—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Gerhardsen—Made the first suggestion by a Western government leader that Washington and Moscow try direct, two-power negotiations to try to end East-West tensions.

He insisted the door be kept open to give the Russians a chance to prove they want peaceful coexistence between capitalism and communism.

He urged postponement of the decision to accept or reject American medium-range missiles until the weapons were actually ready for delivery, a year or more from now.

He also asked that NATO state that it is equipping itself with superweapons only because the Soviet challenge in this field made it necessary.

Why did he take these stands? Gerhardsen is a Socialist, and Europe's Socialist parties generally favor more talks with the Russians. His country is on the Soviets' northern doorstep, and probably could be overrun easily, as it was by Hitler in World War II. But Gerhardsen does not want to close the door on all the protection NATO can give Norway ultimately.

Adenauer — Operating mainly from his hotel suite, the West German Chancellor wanted political problems given equal rank with military issues at the meeting. There is still a strong element in his country that, after the horrors of World War II, fears Germany will be the battleground for World War III.

His Socialist opponents continually insist that German rearmament precludes Soviet concessions that might mean reunification for East and West Germany, still the major issue in the divided country. With no visible progress toward reunification, even some Adenauer followers are beginning to feel that concessions must be made to the Russians.

The West German Chancellor adroitly couched a plea to other European government chiefs to sound out the Russians on a cold-war truce — and then worked on the Americans to go along.

Macmillan came to the conference firmly opposed to the idea of high-level talks at this time with the Kremlin bosses because he feels nothing can come of them.

His immediate goals were:

1. To preserve the special British-American relations forged in his Washington conference with Eisenhower and at the same time to assure the Europeans there was no Washington-London axis within NATO.

2. To insure the Americans that nuclear weapon bases will be set up in Europe as a means of bolstering Allied security against Russia's new space-age challenges.

3. To pull some sort of rabbit out of the NATO hat with which to confound his opposition in the British Parliament's foreign policy debate beginning Friday.

Operetta Heard By Wilson PTO

Business Session Is Held First

While considerable business was taken up at the Wilson School Parent-Teacher Organization Wednesday night, the highlight of the evening was the annual Christmas program presented by the pupils after adjournment.

This year, the program was the operetta, "Merry Christmas, Mr. Snowman," in which all the pupils participated in one way or another.

It was directed by Mrs. John P. Case, assisted by the teachers, Mrs. Leonard Stephenson, Mrs. Clara Belle Patton, Mrs. Charlene Mace, Mrs. Hazel Garringer, Mrs. Howard Stewart and Wilson Webb.

* * *

THE BUSINESS meeting, presided over by Frank Dill, president, was opened with group singing of "Joy to the World." The Lord's Prayer followed.

Gifts were awarded to seven children who sold the most tickets for the supper. They were Diana Oty, Kathy Pearce, Karen Webb, Chris Bower, Joe Keefer, Julia Rankin and Don Juillerat.

The fifth grade, taught by Mrs. Stewart, was awarded the banner for having the most parents and grandparents at the meeting.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Emerson Carter and the secretary's report by Mrs. Richard Rankin.

* * *

THE PTO VOTED to buy material for 36 dish towels for the lunch room. The Wilson Sisters, 4-H club, will make the towels.

The group agreed to investigate the possibility of getting a dish washer for the school kitchen and instructed the president to appoint a committee for the investigation later.

On the committee named to arrange for the Christmas treats to be given the pupils Friday as they start the holiday are Mrs. Richard Barger, Mrs. Robert Weeks, Mrs. Langdon McCoy, Mrs. Thomas Craig and Mrs. Perley Fryer.

On the refreshments committee for January are Mr. and Mrs. Lale Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bower, Mrs. Joe McFadden and Mrs. Charlene Mace.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Silent Night."

Japan To Get Rockets

TOKYO (AP)—The United States is going to equip Japan's air force with the Sidewinder missile, an air-to-air rocket which homes itself on an enemy plane.

America Building New-Type ICBM

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reported well along in building a second design of Air Force intercontinental ballistic missile.

It also is said to be testing rocket engines for the submarine-launched intermediate range Polaris missile of the Navy.

These disclosures of new progress in missile weaponry came from Dan A. Kimball, head of a missile engine firm. Kimball, president of Aero-Jet General Corp., is a former secretary of the Navy.

Kimball, speaker Wednesday night at a meeting of the Washington section of the American Rocket Society, said in answer to a question that the first engine for the Titan ICBM has been delivered and that others are in production.

The Titan is a 5,000-mile-range missile, like the Atlas, which was test fired successfully on Tuesday from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Both are Air Force programs.

* * *

KIMBALL ALSO said the first and second stages of the power plant for the 1,500-mile-range Polaris missile were tested last week and "we're going to fire some more this week." He did not make clear whether these were "tied-down" tests of the rocket engines at Aero Jet's California plants or flight tests made at the Cape Canaveral site.

Pentagon officials revealed last week that the Polaris project has been accelerated, with the first missile now expected to be ready in 1960 or earlier.

The Polaris, developed by Lockheed, is unlike the Air Force's ICBM and IRBM weapons and the Army's Jupiter IRBM in that it uses solid fuel instead of liquid propellent. The Navy prefers solid rocket fuel for safety and ease of handling the missile aboard submarines and ships.

The Army test-launched a thundering Jupiter rocket from the missile test center in Florida Wednesday night.

From the moment of flaming takeoff until the torch dimmed out high in a starry sky some four minutes later, it appeared to be a most successful launching.

But the Defense Department said later that the missile failed to complete its full flight because of technical difficulties.

What that meant in terms of range, speed and accuracy was not explained.

Kids Modernize Nativity Carol

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The children of Sam Wall were rehearsing their Nativity play at home. The eldest, Jan, 7, was directing her three sisters and brother, who had gathered at the crib of sister Debbie, 5 months.

"Now I'll be the Blessed Mother," advised Jan, "and Debbie is the Holy Infant in the crib. And all you wise men just kneel down here and sing, 'For he's a jolly good fellow.'"

Singing, Acting In Jeff Program

Over 100 Children In Holiday Show

A short play, a choral singing exercise, a pageant, and a variety of musical numbers will highlight the annual pageant of the Jeffersonville School children in the school house at 8 p. m. Thursday

Mrs. Frances Core will direct the program, which will feature more than 100 youngsters.

"O Little Town of Bethlehem," a play set in the office of the keeper of records in heaven, will open the program, with the fifth grade youngsters taking the parts, and fourth grade children acting as a chorus.

Jackie Janes will play the keeper of records and Bille Baird, his young assistant. Iva Jane Bunch will be Gabriel, while Stephen Jacks will take the part of the messenger. The keeper of the stars will be Douglas LeValley, and Tommy Lovett will be the choirmaster.

The combined first grade will sing "Jingle, Jingle," "Christmas Dollies," and "Santa Is Coming." Teachers assisting are Mrs. Darle Lemley and Mrs. Avannell Zimmerman.

* * *

MRS. ROZELLA Binegar and Mrs. Gladys Cherryholmes and second grade teachers assisting in the presentation of the combined second grade, singing "Oh Christmas Tree" and "The Bells."

Fourth and fifth grade children featured in a choral speaking group include Terry McBee, David Owens, Janet Long and Anita Sams. The teacher is Mrs. Lela Pheanis.

Featured in a nativity pageant by the combined third grades will be Johnny Phillips, Mary Owens, Gary McBee, Glenn Williams, Roger Zimmerman, Ronnie West, Ronnie Smith, Kenneth Hahn, Natalie Cox, Barbara Sanderson, Mary Kay Bunch and Diana Upp. The third grade chorus will sing, and Mrs. Mildred Hall and Miss Eleanor Vanniman will assist.

A twin brother, Robert Wayne Polk, also worked at the quarry before enlisting in the armed services about eight weeks ago. The brother has been taking basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky., and was due home on leave Wednesday night.

Because of a delay in his release from Ft. Knox, he had not arrived by late Thursday morning and his mother said he apparently knew nothing of the accident.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Polk are Hillsboro natives, but the family has lived, during recent years, in Springfield as well as Bainbridge. Hillsboro and Washington C. H.

Surviving, besides the parents and the twin, are a brother, Gary; a sister, Joy; and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Diven of New Petersburg (Highland County).

Services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in the D. M. Evans Funeral Home, Hillsboro, where friends may call after noon Friday. The Rev. Berry Kennedy of the South Side Church of Christ will officiate. Burial will be in Hillsboro Cemetery.

What Language Spoken on Moon?

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — What language will the first human on the moon speak?

This question came up Wednesday at a news conference with 17 physicists from 10 nations attending a science meeting at Stanford University. The scientists were quick with answers:

M. M. Levy from the University of Paris suggested that "broken English is a good guess."

Countered L.R.B. Elton of Kings College in London:

Vatican Aide Named

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius XII has named Marcello Cardinal Mimmi, 75-year-old archbishop of Naples, to serve as secretary of the Vatican's sacred Consistorial Congregation.

The tilt of the Leaning Tower of Pisa in Italy has increased a quarter of an inch in the last 15 years.

Deaths, Funerals

Roy G. Arrasmith

SABINA — Roy G. Arrasmith, 57, died unexpectedly at 2:30 a m. Thursday at his residence, 480 N. Howard St.

Mr. Arrasmith was born and reared in Adams County.

He is survived by his wife, Maye Anderson Arrasmith; five daughters, Mrs. Pauline Thompson, Newark; Mrs. Phyllis Kelley, Hamilton; Mrs. Alberta Collins, Cincinnati; Mrs. June Raypole, Mt. Sterling, and Miss Sandra Lee Arrasmith, at home; one son, James, Sabina; 10 grandchildren; his mother, Mrs. Edna I. Gray, and one sister, Mrs. Charles E. Allen, both of Sabina.

Mr. Arrasmith was an active member of Sabina's Moose Lodge.

Services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Littleton Funeral home, Sabina, by the Rev. Charles Kirsch.

Burial will be in the White Oak Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after noon Friday.

MRS. LOUISE MCMURRAY — Services for Mrs. Louise McMurray, former resident of Washington C. H. who died in Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati Sunday morning, were held at 3:30 p m. Wednesday in the Gerstner Funeral Home. The Rev. Don McMillin, pastor of the First Christian Church officiated.

Services had been held Tuesday morning in Winchester, where Mrs. McMurray had lived for the last year.

Pallbearers, all residents of Winchester, for the burial in the Washington C. H. Cemetery were Harold Shaw, Robert Gregg, Elsworth Edenfield, Russell Hughes, Adrian Jones and George Larrick.

MRS. ONA SNIDER — Services for Mrs. Ona Snider, who died Sunday afternoon in Memorial Hospital, were conducted at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Gerstner Funeral Home by the Rev. W. S. Alexander.

Pallbearers were Paul Pennington, Jay J. Kelley, Frank Hays, John Dial, G. Damon Baker and William Lovell. Burial was in the Washington C. H. Cemetery.

Stock Mart Trading Active And Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market did a quick turnabout today with prices higher and trading active early this afternoon.

Steels, motors, coppers aircrafts and other groups went ahead after an irregularly lower start.

Key stocks showed gains from fractions to about two points but some of the gains were trimmed below their best.

In early trading most changes were narrow and losers outnumbered gainers about two-to-one, though the declines were slight they were enough to set new 1957 lows for such stocks as U. S. Steel, General Motors and Youngstown Sheet.

The quick reversal, brokers said, was purely technical, based on no particular news development.

Youngstown rebounded with a two-point gain and then paring away a fraction. Texas Co. was ahead about two.

U. S. Steel was ahead a major fraction and General Motors a small fraction as they bounced upward from their new lows.

Gains of about a point were made by Chrysler, Goodrich, Caterpillar, Boeing, Alcoa and Allied Chemical.

Southern Railway, Baltimore & O Ohio were mainly steady.

Among gainers were Ford, Consolidated Edison and Standard oil (New Jersey).

U. S. government bonds rose.

ed officer was patrolling U. S. 40 about four miles west of the Columbus city limits when he saw a car parked behind the drive-in restaurant and a man trying to get in the front door. He approached the man, removed a revolver the man was carrying, and started to march him around the restaurant to the car parked behind it.

At that point, someone in or near the car opened fire on the patrolman, and the man he was holding fled, the patrol said. They said there is some question whether the man jumped in the car or fled on foot.

The car was driven away and patrolman Giuffre followed it until he realized he had been wounded more than once, the patrol said. He radioed for help and drove to Prairie Twp. volunteer fire station for assistance.

The patrol said Myers told them he and his companion drove east into Columbus, tried unsuccessfully to rob a used car lot, and finally stole a panel truck from a service station. They drove to another car lot and took the convertible which crashed near Kirkersville, patrolmen were told.

Who actually did the shooting has not been determined.

School Luncheon Prices Increased In Miami Trace

Loss of Eyman Fund Aid, Government Commodities Cited

The Miami Trace Board of Education Wednesday night raised the price of luncheons in the 12 school cafeterias from 25 cents to 30 cents for children and from 35 to 40 cents for adults.

Board members pointed out that they were taking the action "of necessity".

The resolution stated that the increase was necessary because "Miami Trace Local District has been deprived of substantial aid from the Eyman Estate Fund which in past years has assisted greatly in providing free luncheons for needy school children" and because the quantity of government surplus commodities provided for schools has been greatly reduced."

Mrs. Senath Thompson, board clerk, said that only $500 was received from Eyman Estate funds last year as compared with $1,250 the previous year. Assistance from the fund has reached as much as $3,000 annually in past years.

THE BOARD voted to seek estimates for repairs and redecoration of the Bloomingburg school auditorium and approved the Milledgeville Bank at Jeffersonville as a depository for payroll funds for the next two years.

It was announced that William A. Haines, vocational agriculture teacher at Jeffersonville who has been on leave of absence because of illness since the opening of school, will return to his duties Jan. 2.

The teacher commended Ralph Fordyce who has been acting as relief voag teacher.

The board also approved a monthly payroll of $47,712 and paid current bills to the amount of $7,706.

Dairy Props Due for Cut On April 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson announced Wednesday government price supports for dairy products will be reduced to the legal minimum beginning next April 1.

Benson told a news conference the change should bring about reductions in retail prices of about 2½ cents a pound for butter and for cheese and ½ cent a quart for fluid milk.

The minimum price support, under farm law, is 75 per cent of the parity price of milk and butterfat. Milk used for manufacturing purposes is now being supported at 83 per cent of parity and butterfat at 80 per cent.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

Benson said the cut in dairy supports has been recommended by the 18-member bipartisan National Agricultural Advisory Commission and the five-man advisory board of the Commodity Credit Corp., the agency which finances price support operations.

Specific dollars and cents price suport rates for manufacturing milk and butterfat and the purchase prices for products made from them will be announced late in March on the basis of the parity price prevailing then.

Under the present support program, the government buys butter, cheese and dried milk at prices designed to enable processors to pay dairymen at least $3.25 a hundredweight for milk and 58.6 cents a pound for butterfat.

He Obeys Siren, Pays Unusual 'Fine'

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A Tulsa motorist heard a siren Wednesday and thought he should obey by pulling over to the curb.

Hurley Mitchell told the sheriff's office two men pulled up in a late model car after sounding the siren. One asked for his driver's license and when Mitchell handed it over along with his billfold containing $123, the man said: "Well, you're not the one, but I'll just keep this."

There wasn't much to do, Mitchell said, because the man pointed a pistol at him, then drove away in the car with his companion.

West European Statesmen Show 'New Life' at NATO

Old friends and a new face posed problems U.S. diplomacy has not had to face in Europe so long as America alone could guarantee defense against the Russians.

The men who made the key moves in the talks were Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen and two old pals of the United States—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Gerhardsen—Made the first suggestion by a Western government leader that Washington and Moscow try direct, two-power negotiations to try to end East-West tensions.

He insisted the door be kept open to give the Russians a chance to prove they want peaceful coexistence between capitalism and communism.

He urged postponement of the decision to accept or reject American medium-range missiles until the weapons were actually ready for delivery, a year or more from now.

He also asked that NATO state that it is equipping itself with superweapons only because the Soviet challenge in this field made it necessary.

Why did he take these stands? Gerhardsen is a Socialist, and Europe's Socialist parties generally favor more talks with the Russians. His country is on the Soviets' northern doorstep, and probably could be overrun easily, as it was by Hitler in World War II. But Gerhardsen does not want to close the door on all the protection NATO can give Norway ultimately.

Adenauer — Operating mainly from his hotel suite, the West German Chancellor wanted political problems given equal rank with military issues at the meeting. There is still a strong element in his country that, after the horrors of World War II, fears Germany will be the battleground for World War III.

His Socialist opponents continually insist that German rearmament precludes Soviet concessions that might mean reunification for East and West Germany, still the major issue in the divided country. With no visible progress toward reunification, even some Adenauer followers are beginning to feel that concessions must be made to the Russians.

The West German Chancellor adroitly couched a plea to other European government chiefs to sound out the Russians on a cold-war truce — and then worked on the Americans to go along.

Macmillan came to the conference firmly opposed to the idea of high-level talks at this time with the Kremlin bosses because he feels nothing can come of them.

His immediate goals were:

1. To preserve the special British-American relations forged in his Washington conference with Eisenhower and at the same time to assure the Europeans there was no Washington-London axis within NATO.

2. To insure the Americans that nuclear weapon bases will be set up in Europe as a means of bolstering Allied security against Russia's new space-age challenges.

3. To pull some sort of rabbit out of the NATO hat with which to confound his opposition in the British Parliament's foreign policy debate beginning Friday.

Operetta Heard By Wilson PTO

Business Session Is Held First

While considerable business was taken up at the Wilson School Parent-Teacher Organization Wednesday night, the highlight of the evening was the annual Christmas program presented by the pupils after adjournment.

This year, the program was the operetta, "Merry Christmas, Mr. Snowman," in which all the pupils participated in one way or another.

It was directed by Mrs. John P. Case, assisted by the teachers, Mrs. Leonard Stephenson, Mrs. Clara Belle Patton, Mrs. Charlene Mace, Mrs. Hazel Garringer, Mrs. Howard Stewart and Wilson Webb.

* * *

THE BUSINESS meeting, presided over by Frank Dill, president, was opened with group singing of "Joy to the World." The Lord's Prayer followed.

Gifts were awarded to seven children who sold the most tickets for the supper. They were Diana Oty, Kathy Pearce, Karen Webb, Chris Bower, Joe Keefer, Julia Rankin and Don Juillerat.

The fifth grade, taught by Mrs. Stewart, was awarded the banner for having the most parents and grandparents at the meeting.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Emerson Carter and the secretary's report by Mrs. Richard Rankin.

* * *

THE PTO VOTED to buy material for 36 dish towels for the lunch room. The Wilson Sisters, 4-H club, will make the towels.

The group agreed to investigate the possibility of getting a dish washer for the school kitchen and instructed the president to appoint a committee for the investigation later.

On the committee named to arrange for the Christmas treats to be given the pupils Friday as they start the holiday are Mrs. Richard Barger, Mrs. Robert Weeks, Mrs. Langdon McCoy, Mrs. Thomas Craig and Mrs. Perley Fryer.

On the refreshments committee for January are Mr. and Mrs. Lale Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bower, Mrs. Joe McFadden and Mrs. Charlene Mace.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Silent Night."

Japan To Get Rockets

TOKYO (AP)—The United States is going to equip Japan's air force with the Sidewinder missile, an air-to-air rocket which homes itself on an enemy plane.

America Building New-Type ICBM

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reported well along in building a second design of Air Force intercontinental ballistic missile.

It also is said to be testing rocket engines for the submarine-launched intermediate range Polaris missile of the Navy.

These disclosures of new progress in missile weaponry came from Dan A. Kimball, head of a missile engine firm. Kimball, president of Aero-Jet General Corp., is a former secretary of the Navy.

Kimball, speaker Wednesday night at a meeting of the Washington section of the American Rocket Society, said in answer to a question that the first engine for the Titan ICBM has been delivered and that others are in production.

The Titan is a 5,000-mile-range missile, like the Atlas, which was test fired successfully on Tuesday from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Both are Air Force programs.

* * *

KIMBALL ALSO said the first and second stages of the power plant for the 1,500-mile-range Polaris missile were tested last week and "we're going to fire some more this week." He did not make clear whether these were "tied - down" tests of the rocket engines at Aero Jet's California plants or flight tests made at the Cape Canaveral site.

Pentagon officials revealed last week that the Polaris project has been accelerated, with the first missile now expected to be ready in 1960 or earlier.

The Polaris, developed by Lockheed, is unlike the Air Force's ICBM and IRBM weapons and the Army's Jupiter IRBM in that it uses solid fuel instead of liquid propellent. The Navy prefers solid rocket fuel for safety and ease of handling the missile aboard submarines and ships.

The Army test - launched a thundering Jupiter rocket from the missile test center in Florida Wednesday night.

From the moment of flaming takeoff until the torch dimmed out high in a starry sky some four minutes later, it appeared to be a most successful launching.

But the Defense Department said later that the missile failed to complete its full flight because of technical difficulties.

What that meant in terms of range, speed and accuracy was not explained.

Kids Modernize Nativity Carol

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The children of Sam Wall were rehearsing their Nativity play at home. The eldest, Jan, 7, was directing her three sisters and brother, who had gathered at the crib of sister Debbie, 5 months.

"Now I'll be the Blessed Mother," advised Jan, "and Debbie is the Holy Infant in the crib. And all you wise men just kneel down here and sing, 'For he's a jolly good fellow.' "

Would A Traffic Violator School Help

Perhaps Washington C. H. could help reduce the number of traffic violators if it adopted the plan that quite a number of other Ohio cities has found quite helpful.

This would be the creation of a school for traffic offenders; it could include others who would be interested in learning more about the problems of traffic, safety and driving, even in a city the size of Washington C. H.

Although there are many who might debate the wisdom and expense of such a move in an average city of this size, and furthermore because Washington C. H. has been unusually free of serious traffic accidents for several years, there are still too many traffic violators appearing in municipal and other courts here who sometimes are guilty of serious offenses.

It is true that many of these are from out of the city and county, but their violations occurred here.

Naturally the question of securing qualified instructors, equipment and a location for instruction, and funds to finance the project, comprise something that would have to be worked out; it is possible that the violators might have to bear the largest part of the cost.

It is reported that in most cities which have tried such a plan the results have been highly successful in reducing traffic violations within such cities and counties. One serious accident due to such an offense, where sometimes several people are killed or crippled, maybe for life, means a great deal if it could have been avoided by safety measures.

Such a school often provides something more than a punishment for an offender. Besides reducing traffic violation troublemakers it furthers general knowledge among citizens in matters which the school presents.

Certainly a reduction of accidents, injuries and deaths should more than compensate for what could be the relatively small cost of such a school.

Ship Launching--an Ordeal

By Hal Boyle

PASCAGOULA, Miss (AP) — Thanks to 80 good men and a frightened stranger the S. S. Brasil, the largest passenger liner ever built in the Deep South, was successfully launched here this week.

I was the frightened stranger, the "trigger man" picked to send the big, handsome 22,500-ton vessel down the ways.

When a representative of the owners, the Moore-McCormack Lines, asked if I'd like to launch the new ship, largest built in this country since the S. S. United States, I realized it was a high honor for a typewriter pecker.

"Oh, there's nothing to it," a New York spokesman of the line assured me. "All you have to do is push a button."

So for a week I practiced pushing every button I could find. By the time I arrived here at the yards of the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp. I was feeling pretty confident.

"Where's that little old button I have to push," I asked.

"What button?" came the answer. "There isn't any button. You have to push a lever."

Push a lever? I was an expert on buttons. But I was out of training on levers. What if I muffed the job?

I felt even more unsure when it was explained that the 80 trained workmen would knock out all but two pins holding the $26 million ship in place.

Promptly at 3 p.m. on the dot I had to move the lever that would release the two pins, and start the ship down the greased skids.

What if I did something wrong? At 2:50 beneath the vast steel hide of the vessel at my station, my palms were sweaty and I had a bad case o buck fever.

At 10 seconds to 3 o'clock, I heard a voice chanting "ten, nine, eight, seven, six, five, four, three, two, one—release trigger."

I pushed the lever, nothing happened. I fell against it in a panic and felt it arc forward.

For a fraction of a second that seemed forever there was absolute silence down below while up on the official platform, Mrs. Emmet J. McCormack, wife of the lines' board chairman, banged a bottle of champagne against the ship and christened her.

But I could hear my heart pounding. Something must have gone wrong. I could visualize the owner saying, "You bum, we spent 18 months on this ship and you ruined her in one second. Well, you'll have to pay for her yourself." I knew that if that happened I'd be in no position to collect an old-age pension until the year 2557.

Then came the sound of cracking wood almost like an explosion, and the huge vessel began to slide. Slowly at first, then faster and faster, creating a mighty wind, and then a cheer went up as her stern hit the river, and she rode the water as graceful as a gull.

It is a tremendous moment when a thing so vast and manmade first embraces its duty. It gives you a catch in the throat. In less than a minute this big dead conglomeration of metal had become a thing alive, full of a wave-borne beauty.

I wished her fair weather and fine voyages and a long happy life at sea and in port. Then I went over and kicked that obstreperous lever so hard I hurt my foot. It had aged me 10 years in 10 seconds.

Don't ever let anyone tell you there's nothing to launching a ship but pushing a button. It's more like having a baby, and I sure hope I never come any closer to knowing motherhood.

You'll Lose Battle If You Lose Head

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU have to learn to curb your anger.

It is extremely difficult to act intelligently when you are angry. Professional boxers know that a sure way to lose a fight is to get mad and lose their heads.

It's natural to become angry from time to t', but you must learn not to take things too seriously.

Primitive Action

Anger in itself is a very primitive action. Give vent to it and you are likely to make a fool of yourself.

The best advice I can give you is to keep quiet when you become angry. Don't say what is on your mind, don't take a sock at anybody. You'll be sorry tomorrow if you do. Besides, the other guy may be a lot tougher than you think!

Don't Sound Off!

It is wrong to sound off when you are angry. Just remember this when you are tempted to spout off about something you believe is an injustice.

Perhaps you deserve this so-called injustice. Think back. Maybe you actually asked for it.

Before you launch on a tirade at anyone, try to understand his viewpoint. What made him do or say the thing that made you angry?

You can talk about your "gripe" later, in order to let off a little steam, but make sure you have first regained your senses. Losing your temper is a good way of losing your self-respect.

No one really wins an argument. No matter how it is settled, there is apt to be bad feeling for some time between those involved.

Don't Hold A Grudge

If you should make the mistake of sounding off at someone, don't harbor a grudge. Even if you quell your anger and hold it in check to avert an argument, you might continue thinking about how wrong the other fellow is.

To prevent any such prolonged unpleasantness, I suggest that a few days after the incident, you contact the person who has angered you. Tell him you are sorry you lost your temper and that you realize it was a foolish thing to do.

D. F.: Can books be carriers of infection?

Answer: Books are not often carriers of infection. Even such a contagious disease as smallpox is unlikely to spread by contaminated books.

Being 'Ex' Rose Bowl Queen Labeled as No Bed of Roses

SUNLAND, Calif. (AP) — Almost any girl would love to be a beauty queen, honored and admired. It's like "riding a pink cloud."

But what's it like when the reign is over, the crown but a souvenir?

Mrs. Margaret Huntley Main, star of the 1940 New Year's Day fete in nearby Pasadena, says she started having problems the moment she took off her crown and she still has them.

She told a newsman: "There's a letdown, but that isn't the real trouble. The worst problem is the way people act after you go back to school.

"People come up in the halls and make remarks. A teacher told me she'd like to have me in a class because it would be a pleasure to flunk me. Strangers ask for dates.

"If your seams are crooked, someone is sure to say, 'Is that any way for a queen to look?'

"People compare you with other queens—say how much prettier they were. Sometimes there are comments like, 'Is that the queen? How did she get it?'

"You begin to feel self-conscious and it stays with you. Pretty soon you're afraid of people. They seem so critical. You think twice before you go to the store in jeans. If you do, someone is sure to spot you and say, 'Look at her! She's some queen!'"

Mrs. Main is the wife of a Lockheed aircraft executive and has four children, Linda, 16; Johnny, 14; Martin, 8; and Sandra, 7. She says they moved to Sunland partly because of her Rose queen past.

If she had it to do over again, would she enter the annual queen competition at Pasadena City College?

"Yes," she said. "The problems are only a small part of it. Most of it is fun and I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

Lutheran Publication Printed In Hungarian

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Lutheran Council, in order to meet needs of Lutheran refugees from Hungary settled in the United States, has authorized the publication of a religious periodical in the Hungarian language.

Of the 1,886 colleges and universities in the United States, nearly 40 per cent of them are controlled by religious groups.

Men Do Not Live by Bread Alone

By George Sokolsky

The age-old argument continues as to what causes men in various countries to rise in revolution, to battle their rulers, to go to war.

Americans are pleased to believe that the struggle in the world today is between the poor nations and the rich nations, between low standard of living peoples and higher standard of living peoples, and that all human problems can be solved by raising purchasing power, so that they eat more, are better housed and better clothed.

Then there will be peace on earth, good will to men.

It is an easy solution, a pleasant thought and upon it one can take a brandy. But it runs counter to all history, for the explosive power in all this world of man has not been bread, but ideals, beliefs, ways of life, concepts of eternity, hunger for liberty.

It has always been the austere people who have been capable of enormous sacrifices, perhaps because they had nothing to lose but their lives.

It was the kumiss-drinking Mongols under Genghis Khan and the Sans Culottes army of Napoleon, impoverished by the French Revolution but believing in Liberte! Egalite! Fraternite! Who set out to conquer mankind, just as today the Soviet world, marching under the banners of Marxism-Leninism, accepts austerity as a norm of life to achieve the universality of mankind.

It was not a higher standard of living that sent Christians to the catacombs or into the Crusades; it was when Christians secularized their God and paid homage to material existence that they lost empires.

We are being told today that all that is necessary to put an end to war and revolution is for the United States to provide more aid, to abolish customs duties, to increase European and Asiatic purchasing power and then the Asiatics and Africans will be happy and will wave the American flag on the Fourth of July.

Into all this also must go the abolition of the Dutch, French and British empires for which the compensation is to be a little more aid and a little more dependence for Europeans and more independence for the newly intensified nationalistic countries of Asia and Africa.

While, in pursuit of this policy, based upon the impression that the Marxist materialistic interpretation of history is correct, we helped to destroy the Dutch empire in Indonesia, the British power in India, Egypt and Arabia, the French empire in North Africa, but we have not made a dent upon the Russian empire. To the contrary, we have strengthened the Russians empire by our shameful betrayal of nationalist China, Korea, Indochina, and Hungary.

There is no evidence in history that men are willing to live by bread alone and Soviet Russia is ample proof, over 40 years, two frightful wars and a devastating revolution, that something more than bread, something of the spirit, must be fed the human soul.

People may be misled, often to their own disadvantage, but they follow not so much him who gives bread as him who demands sacrifices for a cause, as Winston Churchill proved even in our own generation when he offered nothing but blood and tears and high taxes.

Among the moderns of Russia was a priest, Father Yelchaninov, who was born in 1881 and died in exile in Paris in 1934. He made a tremendous impression on the religious thought of the Orthodox Church.

In fact, during the 1905 revolution, he belonged to the "Christian Brotherhood of Struggle," a revolutionary organization. After the Communist revolution, he was a leader of the Russian Christian student movement in exile.

I quote the following from Father Yelchaninov's writings as an example of the thinking of the Russian people, even in our times:

"We live on a farm between 250 and 300 years old; low ceilings, with heavy beams, a chimney, fortress-like walls. In place of the early hearth, there is an iron stove, but even this— especially on a wet day— gives a real sense of home, of cosiness, of something long-desired. I think a real feeling of home can be had only by people who have lived in such nests as these in their own houses, with the real, living fire of a hearth and a smoky ceiling. What special attraction can be offered by our modern 'home'— a flat, one of a thousand other flats which are all alike, with central heating, electric light, water-pipes instead of a well or a fountain, a lodging devoid of all special characteristics, which can be easily exchanged for another..."

SPECIAL DELIVERY — Within 20 minutes after her baby son was born, Mrs. Mamie Fitzgibbons, 30, of Chicago, was phoning friends from her room in Westlake hospital; but that's only half the story. Sitting alone in their car in front of the hospital while her husband, James, rushed for aid, Mrs. Fitzgibbons delivered her 8-pound son all by herself, then walked into the hospital and went to bed. The baby, her second, is a boy. (International)

"Righto," nodded "Randy" Churchill. "On the lake, I presume?"

Would A Traffic Violator School Help

Perhaps Washington C. H. could help reduce the number of traffic violators if it adopted the plan that quite a number of other Ohio cities has found quite helpful.

This would be the creation of a school for traffic offenders; it could include others who would be interested in learning more about the problems of traffic, safety and driving, even in a city the size of Washington C. H.

Although there are many who might debate the wisdom and expense of such a move in an average city of this size, and furthermore because Washington C. H. has been unusually free of serious traffic accidents for several years, there are still too many traffic violators appearing in municip a l and other courts here who sometimes are guilty of serious offenses.

It is true that many of these are from out of the city and county, but their violations occurred here.

Naturally the question of securing qualified instructors, equipment and a location for instruction, and funds to finance the project, comprise something that would have to be worked out; it is possible that the violators might have to bear the largest part of the cost.

It is reported that in most cities which have tried such a plan the results have been highly successful in reducing traffic violations within such cities and counties. One serious accident due to such an offense, where sometimes several people are killed or crippled, maybe for life, means a great deal if it could have been avoided by safety measures.

Such a school often provides something more than a punishment for an offender. Besides reducing traffic violation troublem a kers it furthers general knowledge among citi z e n s in matters which the school presents.

Certainly a reduction of accidents, injuries and deaths should more than compensate for what could be the relatively small cost of such a school.

Ship Launching--an Ordeal

By Hal Boyle

PASCAGOU L A, Miss (AP) — Thanks to 80 good men and a frightened stranger the S. S. Brasil, the largest passenger liner ever built in the Deep South, was successfully launched here this week.

I was the frightened stranger, the "trigger man" p i c k e d to send the big, handsome 22,500-ton vessel down the ways.

When a representative of the owners, the Moore-McCormack Lines, asked if I'd like to launch the new ship, largest built in this country since the S. S. United States, I realized it was a high honor for a typewriter pecker.

"Oh, there's nothing to it," a New York spokesman of the line assured me. "All you have to do is push a button."

So for a week I practiced pushing every button I could find. By the time I arrived here at the yards of the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp. I was feeling pretty confident.

"Where's that little old button I have to push," I asked.

"What button?" came the answer. "There isn't any button. You have to push a lever."

Push a lever? I was an expert on buttons. But I was out of training on levers. What if I muffed the job?

I felt even more unsure when it was explained that the 80 trained workmen would knock out all but two pins holding the $26 million ship in place.

Promptly at 3 p.m. on the dot I had to move the lever that would release the two pins, and start the ship down the greased skids.

What if I did s o m e t h i n g wrong? At 2:50 beneath the vast steel hide of the vessel at my station, my palms were sweaty and I had a bad case o buck fever.

At 10 seconds to 3 o'clock, I heard a voice chanting "ten, nine, eight, seven, six, five, four, three, two, one—release trigger."

I pushed the lever, nothing happened. I fell against it in a panic and felt it arc forward.

For a fraction of a second that seemed forever there was absolute silence down below while up on the official platform, Mrs. Emmet J. McCormack, wife of the lines' board chairman, banged a bottle of champagne against the ship and christened her.

But I could hear my heart pounding. Something must have gone wrong. I could visualize the owner saying, "You bum, we spent 18 months on this ship and you ruined her in one second. Well, you'll have to pay for her yourself." I knew that if that happened I'd be in no position to collect an old-age pension until the year 2557.

Then came the sound of cracking wood almost like an explosion, and the huge vessel began to slide. Slowly at first, then faster and faster, creating a mighty wind, and then a cheer went up as her stern hit the river, and she rode the water as graceful as a gull.

It is a tremendous moment when a thing so vast and manmade first embraces its duty. It gives you a catch in the throat. In less than a minute this big dead conglomeration of metal had become a thing alive, full of a wave-borne beauty

I wished her fair weather and fine voyages and a long happy life at sea and in port. Then I went over and kicked that obstreperous lever so hard I hurt my foot. It had aged me 10 years in 10 seconds.

Don't ever let anyone tell you there's nothing to launching a ship but pushing a button. It's more like having a baby, and I sure hope I never come any closer to knowing motherhood.

Men Do Not Live by Bread Alone

By George Sokolsky

The age-old argument continues as to what causes men in various countries to rise in revolution, to battle their rulers, to go to war.

Americans are pleased to believe that the struggle in the world today is between the poor nations and the rich nations, between low standard of l i v i n g peoples and higher standard of living peoples, and that all human problems can be solved by raising purchasing power, so that they eat more, are better housed and better clothed.

Then there will be peace on earth, good will to men.

It is an easy solution, a pleasant thought and upon it one can take a brandy. But it runs counter to all history, for the explosive power in all this world of man has not been bread, but ideals, beliefs, ways of life, concepts of eternity, hunger for liberty.

It has always been the aus ere people who have been capable of enormous sacrifices, perhaps because they had nothing to lose but their lives.

It was the kumiss-d r i n k i n g Mongols under Genghis Khan and the Sans Culottes army of Napoleon, i m p o v e r i s h e d by the French Revolution but believing in Liberte! Egalite! Fraternite! Who set out to conquer mankind, just as today the Soviet world, marching under the banners of Marxism-Leninism, accepts austerity as a norm of life to achieve the universality of mankind.

It was not a higher standard of living that sent Christians to the catacombs or into the Crusades; it was when Christ i a n s secularized their God and paid homage to material existence that they lost empires.

We are being told today that all that is necessary to p u t an end to war and revolution is for the United States to provide more aid, to abolish customs duties, to increase European and Asiatic purchasing power a n d then the Asiatics and Africans will be happy and will wave the American flag on the Fourth of July.

Into all this also must go the abolition of the Dutch, F r e n c h and British empires for w h i c h the compensation is to be a little more aid and a little more dependence for E u r o p e a n s and more independence for the newly intensified nationalistic countries of Asia and Africa.

While, in pursuit of this policy, based upon the impression that the Marxist materialistic interpretation of history is correct, we helped to destroy the Dutch empire in Indonesia, the B r i t i s h power in India, Egypt and Arabia, the French empire in North Africa, but we have not made a dent upon the Russian empire. To the c o n t r a r y, we h a v e strengthened the Russians empire by our shameful betrayal of nationalist China, Korea, Indochina, and Hungary.

There is no evidence in history that men are willing to live by bread alone and Soviet Russia is ample proof, over 40 years, two frightful wars and a devastating revolution, that something more than bread, something of the spirit, must be fed the human soul.

People may be misled, often to their own disadvantage, but they follow not so much him who g i v e s bread as him who demands sacrifices for a cause, as Winston Churchill proved even in our own generation when he offered nothing but blood and tears and high taxes.

Among the moderns of Russia was a priest, Father Yelchaninov, who was born in 1881 and died in exile in Paris in 1934. He made a tremendous impression on the religious thought of the Orthodox Church.

In fact, during the 1905 revolution, he belonged to the "Christian Brotherhood of Struggle," a revolutionary organization. After the Communist revolution, he was a leader of the Russian Christian student movement in exile.

I quote the following from Father Yelchaninov's writings as an example of the thinking of the Russian people, even in o u r times:

"We live on a farm between 250 and 300 years old; low ceilings, with heavy beams, a chimney, fortress - like walls. In place of the early hearth, there is an iron stove, but even this— especially on a wet day— gives a real sense of home, of cosiness, of something long - desired. I think a real feeling of home can be had only by people who have lived in such nests as these in their own houses, with the real, living fire of a hearth and a smoky ceiling. What special attraction can be offered by o u r modern 'home'— a flat, one of a thousand other flats which are all alike, with central heating, electric light, water - pipes instead of a well or a fountain, a lodging devoid of all special characteristics, which can be easily exchanged for another. ."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

LORD BEAVERBROOK'S flunkeys are trained to refer to him simply as "the lord." Accordingly, when Winston Churchill's son Randolph dropped in at the Beaverbrook estate outside London, the butler reported, "I believe you will find the lord walking on the grounds."

"Righto," nodded "Randy" Churchill. "On the lake, I presume?"

The sales manager of a successful firm was moping in a corner one day. The boss noticed his depression and counselled, "Cheer up, Sam, business is wonderful! There's nothing to worry about! If you have a misfortune, look it right in the face and laugh at it."

"I wouldn't dare," admitted the sales manager. "She outweighs me by 30 pounds."

Diet and Health

You'll Lose Battle If You Lose Head

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU have to learn to curb your anger.

It is extremely difficult to act intelligently when you are angry. Professional boxers know that a sure way to lose a fight is to get mad and lose their heads.

It's natural to become angry from time to t' , but you must learn not to take things too seriously.

Primitive Action

Anger in itself is a very primitive action. Give vent to it and you are likely to make a fool of yourself.

The best advice I can give you is to keep quiet when you become angry. Don't say what is on your mind, don't take a sock at anybody. You'll be sorry tomorrow if you do. Besides, the other guy may be a lot tougher than you think!

Don't Sound Off!

It is wrong to sound off when you are angry. Just remember this when you are tempted to spout off about something you believe is an injustice.

Perhaps you deserve this so-called injustice. Think back. Maybe you actually asked for it.

Before you launch on a tirade at anyone, try to understand his viewpoint. What made him do or say the thing that made you angry?

You can talk about your "gripe" later, in order to let off a little steam, but make sure you have first regained your senses. Losing your temper is a good way of losing your self-respect.

No one really wins an argument. No matter how it is settled, there is apt to be bad feeling for some time between those involved.

Don't Hold A Grudge

If you should make the mistake of sounding off at someone, don't harbor a grudge. Even if you quell your anger and hold it in check to avert an argument, you might continue thinking about how wrong the other fellow is.

To prevent any such prolonged unpleasantness, I suggest that a few days after the incident, you contact the person who has angered you. Tell him you are sorry you lost your temper and that you realize it was a foolish thing to do.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

D. F.: Can books be carriers of infection?

Answer: Books are not often carriers of infection. Even such a contagious disease as smallpox is unlikely to spread by contaminated books.

Tank Job Completed To Fit the Crime, Eh!

CLEVELAND (AP) — Victor Yonke, 28, of Cleveland had a ready explanation for officers who stopped him for speeding 100 miles per hour on Municipal Shoreway.

"I was trying to get to a gas station before I ran out of gas," Yonke said. He went to jail anyway.

SPECIAL DELIVERY — Within 20 minutes after her baby son was born, Mrs. Mamie Fitzgibbons, 30, of Chicago, was phoning friends from her room in Westlake hospital; but that's only half the story. Sitting alone in their car in front of the hospital while her husband, James, rushed for aid, Mrs. Fitzgibbons delivered her 8-pound son all by herself, then walked into the hospital and went to bed. The baby, her second, is a boy. (International)

SUNLAND, Calif. (AP) — Almost any girl would love to be a beauty queen, honored and admired. It's like "riding a pink cloud."

But what's it like when the reign is over, the crown but a souvenir?

Mrs. Margaret Huntley Main, star of the 1940 New Year's Day fete in nearby Pasadena, says she started having problems the moment she took off her crown and she still has them.

She told a newsman: "There's a letdown, but that isn't the real trouble. The worst problem is the way people act after you go back to school.

"People come up in the halls and make remarks. A teacher told me she'd like to have me in a class because it would be a pleasure to flunk me. Strangers ask for dates.

"If your seams are crooked, someone is sure to say, 'Is that any way for a queen to look?'

"People compare you with other queens—say how much prettier they were. Sometimes there are comments like, 'Is that the queen? How did she get it?'

"You begin to feel self-conscious and it stays with you. Pretty soon you're afraid of people. They seem so critical. You think twice before you go to the store in jeans. If you do, someone is sure to spot you and say, 'Look at her! She's some queen!' "

Mrs. Main is the wife of a Lockheed aircraft executive and has four children, Linda, 16; Johnny, 14; Martin, 8; and Sandra, 7. She says they moved to Sunland partly because of her Rose queen past.

If she had it to do over again, would she enter the annual queen competition at Pasadena City College?

"Yes," she said. "The problems are only a small part of it. Most of it is fun and I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

Navy, Marines Stress Science In Leader Hunt

Approximately 500 officers, trained in the field of science, will be added to the ranks of the Navy and Marine Corps annually under a new naval education program, Navy Recruiter Pat Waller announced here this week.

The program, presented by Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates, would enroll roughly that number of enlisted men each year in civilian institutions of higher learning, beginning with the school year 1958 - 59.

After taking a regular four-year course leading to a degree of bachelor of science, the men would be commissioned in the Navy.

Emphasis in their studies will be placed on mathematics and the physical sciences, Waller said. During summer vacation periods the students will be assigned to Navy laboratories and other scientific establishments to study applications of the sciences.

Basis of selection will be intelligence and aptitude, Waller said.

2 Kenyon Students Seek Rhodes Honor

CLEVELAND (AP)—Both students selected to represent Ohio in Rhodes Scholarship competition this year are from Kenyon College.

Selected Wednesday from nine semi-finalists were Todd K. Bender, 21, a senior from Massillon who majors in English, and 22-year-old Gene P. Nassar, a graduate student in English whose home is in Utica, N. Y.

The two go to Chicago Saturday to compete against 10 other students from the six-state Great Lakes district. Four students from the district will be among the 32 U. S. students to receive scholarships for two or three years' study at Oxford University.

Forsythe Is Handed 1-20-Year Pen Term

LIMA (AP)—Ralph K. Forsythe, 40, convicted of manslaughter in the slaying of Charles Conner, 37, has been sentenced to serve 1-20 years in the Ohio Pen.

Forsythe was charged with first degree murder in the slaying Aug. 10, in the kitchen of the Forsythe home here. Conner's body has never been found.

TV Comedians Coming Back?

Carson Says Viewers Don't Seek Laughs Now

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — "Someday," says Johnny Carson, "people will want to laugh again. They'll pull back from their television sets and ask themselves, 'How long is it since I've had a laugh out of this thing?' "

Carson is working his bit for laughs each weekday in the half-hour marital quiz, Do You Trust Your Wife? (ABC-TV).

But at the moment Carson, one of the bright young hopefuls in the ranks of comedians, was talking about the wide and—this season—largely untilled field of television comedy.

"Singers and Westerns are having their day this year," he said. "But comedians will come back."

Last year Carson had his own comedy program on CBS-TV. This year he's working his comedy within a quiz program format. He likes it, as does a large home audience.

What concerns him in the field of straight comedy is that "it's almost impossible to do a live show every week and keep people with you. Even if you have the best material in the world, people get tired of looking at you.

Citing numerous instances of TV comedians, past and current, who have been criticized, Carson said: "Its not a matter of the comedians not being any good; they're as good as ever. It's a matter of their audiences not being any good; they've been overexposed. If Bob Hope appeared every week he'd be dead too.

Yeggs Use Foam To Halt Tear-Gas

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP) — The manager's office at the Ceramic Theater was protected against fire and against theft. There was a foam extinguisher for fires, and a safe triggered with a tear-gas cartridge to discourage burglars.

But burglars who made off with $1,750, the theater's receipts, used one protective device to offset the other. They broke the safe with a sledge hammer and crowbar, setting off the tear gas. Then they sprayed foam from the extinguisher on the tear gas bomb to render it ineffective.

Winter 'Equipment Check' Urged on Automobile Owners

The first blast of winter weather here earlier this month caught many drivers without adequate safety equipment on their cars, Police Chief D. Vaiden Long said here today, observing: "poorly equipped autos can cause a lot of accidents."

"The time to prevent an accident is before it happens," the chief said, noting: "The time to prevent a snow - season accident is before the snow."

"A driver with experience and foresight will not postpone such tasks as getting snow tires and chains until winter is upon him," the chief added.

* * *

"WORKABLE windshield wiper blades, properly adjusted head and tail lights, a serviceable battery and sound brakes are other necessary adjuncts to winter driving," he observed.

"It takes a little time to have these items checked, and to replace them ifnecessary, but it is by such precautions as these that accidents can be prevented," the chief emphasized:

"You'll see the difference between drivers who take precautions and those who don't as soon as the next snow flies," he warned.

Navy, Marines Stress Science In Leader Hunt

Approximately 500 officers, trained in the field of science, will be added to the ranks of the Navy and Marine Corps annually under a new naval education program, Navy Recruiter Pat Waller announced here this week.

The program, presented by Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates, would enroll roughly that number of enlisted men each year in civilian institutions of higher learning, beginning with the school year 1958 - 59.

After taking a regular four-year course leading to a degree of bachelor of science, the men would be commissioned in the Navy.

Emphasis in their studies will be placed on mathematics and the physical sciences, Waller said. During summer vacation periods the students will be assigned to Navy laboratories and other scientific establishments to study applications of the sciences.

Basis of selection will be intelligence and aptitude, Waller said.

2 Kenyon Students Seek Rhodes Honor

CLEVELAND (AP)—Both students selected to represent Ohio in Rhodes Scholarship competition this year are from Kenyon College.

Selected Wednesday from nine semi-finalists were Todd K. Bender, 21, a senior from Massillon who majors in English, and 22-year-old Gene P. Nassar, a graduate student in English whose home is in Utica, N. Y.

The two go to Chicago Saturday to compete against 10 other students from the six-state Great Lakes district. Four students from the district will be among the 32 U. S. students to receive scholarships for two or three years' study at Oxford University.

Forsythe Is Handed 1-20-Year Pen Term

LIMA (AP)—Ralph K. Forsythe, 40, convicted of manslaughter in the slaying of Charles Conner, 37, has been sentenced to serve 1-20 years in the Ohio Pen.

Forsythe was charged with first degree murder in the slaying Aug. 10, in the kitchen of the Forsythe home here. Conner's body has never been found.

TV Comedians Coming Back?

Carson Says Viewers Don't Seek Laughs Now

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — "Someday," says Johnny Carson, "people will want to laugh again. They'll pull back from their television sets and ask themselves, 'How long is it since I've had a laugh out of this thing?' "

Carson is working his bit for laughs each weekday in the half-hour marital quiz, Do You Trust Your Wife? (ABC-TV).

But at the moment Carson, one of the bright young hopefuls in the ranks of comedians, was talking about the wide and—this season—largely untilled field of television comedy.

"Singers and Westerns are having their day this year," he said. "But comedians will come back."

Last year Carson had his own comedy program on CBS-TV. This year he's working his comedy within a quiz program format. He likes it, as does a large home audience.

What concerns him in the field of straight comedy is that "it's almost impossible to do a live show every week and keep people with you. Even if you have the best material in the world, people get tired of looking at you.

Citing numerous instances of TV comedians, past and current, who have been criticized, Carson said: "Its not a matter of the comedians not being any good; they're as good as ever. It's a matter of their audiences not being any good; they've been overexposed. If Bob Hope appeared every week he'd be dead too.

Yeggs Use Foam To Halt Tear-Gas

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP) — The manager's office at the Ceramic Theater was protected against fire and against theft. There was a foam extinguisher for fires, and a safe triggered with a tear-gas cartridge to discourage burglars.

But burglars who made off with $1,750, the theater's receipts, used one protective device to offset the other. They broke the safe with a sledge hammer and crowbar, setting off the tear gas. Then they sprayed foam from the extinguisher on the tear gas bomb to render it ineffective.

Winter 'Equipment Check' Urged on Automobile Owners

The first blast of winter weather here earlier this month caught many drivers without adequate safety equipment on their cars, Police Chief D. Vaiden Long said here today, observing: "poorly equipped autos can cause a lot of accidents."

"The time to prevent an accident is before it happens," the chief said, noting: "The time to prevent a snow - season accident is before the snow."

"A driver with experience and foresight will not postpone such tasks as getting snow tires and chains until winter is upon him," the chief added.

* * *

"WORKABLE windshield wiper blades, properly adjusted head and tail lights, a serviceable battery and sound brakes are other necessary adjuncts to winter driving," he observed.

"It takes a little time to have these items checked, and to replace them ifnecessary, but it is by such precautions as these that accidents can be prevented," the chief emphasized:

"You'll see the difference between drivers who take precautions and those who don't as soon as the next snow flies," he warned.

Jaycees Make Appeal

Christ in Christmas

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Junior Chamber of Commerce here started a movement this year to "Put Christ Back in Christmas." Several Jaycees have written articles giving their views on the movement. Some of them will be published in the Record-Herald before Christmas. Here is the first one.)

"Thank goodness Christmas comes only once a year," or "What a relief!" or "Only two more weeks and it will all be over."

These are comments from people who are inspired by the crass materialism of our modern society where everything of value has to have a dollar sign in front of it.

I say, "Thank God for Christmas and all it really means;" for probably at no other time do we so carefully consider the needs and wants of others. Let us have one time of the year when we can give thought to the spiritual as well as material needs of others.

For this reason, this year during the Christmas season the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Fayette County urges everyone to remember Christ at Christmas.

It shouldn't be necessary to remind Americans that Christmas is the anniversary of the birth of Jesus Christ, that the spirit of Jesus Christ was the gift of God to the human race and that this spirit of giving is the very same spirit which moves us to charitable acts we seem only able to make once a year.

In the frantic pace of modern civilization the gift has become important, the spirit of giving unimportant.

Christ has given way to an X and mas has become muss. Where once there was joy, expectation and love, now there is confusion, envy and disappointment.

If we are to save the holiest of holidays, we must return the true spirit of Christ to this, his anniversary. If we are to put Christ back in Christmas, we must take a long look into ourselves.

We all go out and buy lots of nice gifts to give to our friends and loved ones. We say how happy we are to present these gifts. Some say they just can't seem to get the Christmas spirit-little wonder. They selfishly horde themselves all year and then in one day want to capture the spirit of giving as though it were something like a common cold.

It's wonderful to be able to make people happy giving them things they want. Money buys such nice gifts but it won't buy one minute of time off the celestial clock. Rich man, poor man all get 24 hours a day right to the last minute and it's free. How many of us give at least one hour a week to enrich somebody's life or improve our community. What greater gift can we bestow on our fellow men and it's free.

So if we want to put Christ back in Christmas and put the spirit of Christ in ourselves what better way than to give our time for those things which enrich our community.

Give a little time to enrich the daily lives of those around us and notice how we ourselves become richer.

When it's all said, isn't the true spirit of Christmas giving and is not the best gift of all to give a little of ourselves?

William E. Williams

Church Circle Meeting Held

The Willing Workers Circle of Sugar Grove Methodist Church held its December meeting in the beautifully decorated home of Mrs. Paul Brunner Monday night.

The business meeting was opened and conducted by Mrs. Brunner, president, who gave a clever reading on "What Is a Girl." She also reported the piano fund for the parsonage now has a balance of $80.

Mrs. Frank Berry and Mrs. Faye Washburn Jr. gave a report of the ways and means committee for December and January. Mrs. Brunner closed this period with prayer.

Mrs. Ronald Armbrust was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Wesley Thatcher presented very impressive devotions, using the Christmas theme. Christmas carols and songs were included.

Mrs. Thatcher also presented the program, her subject being "Fact and Fancy at Christmas." The many pagan customs associated with Christmas were given, including the date and how some of them have been absorbed into our Christian culture.

A gift exchange was enjoyed around a beautifully lighted tree. Mrs. Brunner served seasonal refreshments to Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Washburn, Mrs. Armbrust, Mrs. Thatcher, Mrs. Richard Gleadall, Mrs. Willard Browder, Mrs. Gene Juillerat, Mrs. Harold Hugus, Mrs. Richard Miller and Mrs. Emerson Carter.

The January meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Miller.

Mrs. Maurice Kelly entertained her two - table card club with a delicious turkey dinner recently.

The guests were seated at one long table that was beautifully appointed and had lighted tapers placed at each end.

Those attending included Mrs. James Marvin, Mrs. Emerson Carter, Mrs. Austin Fuller, Mrs. John Aills and Mrs. Foster Kelly.

Bethel 41 Job's Daughters, Holds Semiannual Inspection Service

The semi-annual inspection of Bethel 41, International Order of Job's Daughters, was held in the Fayette Grange Hall Monday night.

Miss Glenna Watkins, honored queen, conducted the meeting and presented Mrs. Evelyn Williams, grand guardian of Ohio, the inspecting officer.

Other distinguished guests attending were Miss Charilyn Reinke, Miss Beverly Evans and Miss Cindy Schlichter, past honored queens from Bethel 41. Miss Schlichter is also grand Bethel third messenger.

Also presented was Mrs. Russell Douglas, director of music of Bethel 41, grand musician of Ohio and worthy matron of Mt. Sterling Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. There were also worshipful masters and worthy matrons present from Bloomingburg, Jeffersonville and Leesburg.

Miss Penny Noble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Noble, Miss Nadine Noble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Noble, and Miss Judy Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Smith, were initiated into the order during the ceremony.

Mrs. Williams gave the Bethel a grade of excellent for their impressive work. She closed her interesting talk with a poem entitled, "Candles," comparing a candle to a human life.

Gifts were presented from the Bethel to Mrs. Williams, to Mrs. Jess Schlichter, guardian, and to the grand officers.

The meeting was closed in ritualistic form following the coin march, which will be sent to Magnetic Springs Polio Fund.

A reception followed honoring Miss Schlichter and Mrs. Douglas. The table carried out the purple and white theme of the order in candles and flowers. The punch bowl was presided over by Mrs. Jerry Nessell, assisted by Mrs. Roy Smith.

Jaycees Make Appeal

Christ in Christmas

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Junior Chamber of Commerce here started a movement this year to "Put Christ Back in Christmas." Several Jaycees have written articles giving their views on the movement. Some of them will be published in the Record-Herald before Christmas. Here is the first one.)

"Than: goodness Christmas comes only once a year," or "What a relief!" or "Only two more weeks and it will all be over."

These are comments from people who are inspired by the crass materialism of our modern society where everything of value has to have a dollar sign in front of it.

I say, "Thank God for Christmas and all it really means;" for probably at no other time do we so carefully consider the needs and wants of others. Let us have one time of the year when we can give thought to the spiritual as well as material needs of others.

For this reason, this year during the Christmas season the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Fayette County urges everyone to remember Christ at Christmas.

It shouldn't be necessary to remind Americans that Christmas is the anniversary of the birth of Jesus Christ, that the spirit of Jesus Christ was the gift of God to the human race and that this spirit of giving is the very same spirit which moves us to charitable acts we seem only able to make once a year.

In the frantic pace of modern civilization the gift has become important, the spirit of giving unimportant.

Christ has given way to an X and mas has become muss. Where once there was joy, expectation and love, now there is confusion, envy and disappointment.

If we are to save the holiest of holidays, we must return the true spirit of Christ to this, his anniversary. If we are to put Christ back in Christmas, we must take a long look into ourselves.

We all go out and buy lots of nice gifts to give to our friends and loved ones. We say how happy we are to present these gifts. Some say they just can't seem to get the Christmas spirit-little wonder. They selfishly horde themselves all year and then in one day want to capture the spirit of giving as though it were something like a common cold.

It's wonderful to be able to make people happy giving them things they want. Money buys such nice gifts but it won't buy one minute of time off the celestial clock. Rich man, poor man all get 24 hours a day right to the last minute and it's free. How many of us give at least one hour a week to enrich somebody's life or improve our community. What greater gift can we bestow on our fellow men and it's free.

So if we want to put Christ back in Christmas and put the spirit of Christ in ourselves what better way than to give our time for those things which enrich our community.

Give a little time to enrich the daily lives of those around us and notice how we ourselves become richer.

When it's all said, isn't the true spirit of Christmas giving and is not the best gift of all to give a little of ourselves?

The Legacy of Luke

Intense Desire for Detail Marks Reporter's Search

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Until Luke wrote the gospel bearing his name, the story of the Nativity had not been committed to print. Here is a recounting of how the systematic physician may have set out to erase the unknowns about Christ's arrival on earth.)

By George Cornell
(By The Associated Press)

Wonder is the spur to knowledge.

This was the compelling call that drew Luke into the greatest reporting assignment of all time.

He was out to probe a divine mystery—the advent of his Lord.

During a period while his comrade and spiritual mentor, Paul, was a prisoner in Caesarea on the Mediterranean east coast from about 57 to 59 A.D., Luke had the time to pursue his monumental inquiry.

There would be no better chance, and he was near Jesus' home territory.

There was a store of documents for his preliminary scrutiny. Many persons, as he wrote, had "undertaken to compile a narrative" of Jesus. But to Luke, a doctor trained in factual analysis, they were far from complete.

None gave a precise description of the Lord's arrival—no adequate explanation of an occurrence that would amaze men ever after.

* * *

LUKE, THE POLISHED, observant physician, went to work. What he was to learn would be caroled through the centuries at Christmas.

In earnest prayer, devotion and with a clinical scrupulousness to get, as he said, an "orderly account," he set about to examine the records, and to consult surviving witnesses who had first-hand information.

To start his research, the bits of scrolls and parchments that circulated guardedly among the congregations were a help, even though fragmentary and meager.

And by cross-checking, he found, some could be ignored as colored inventions.

Two of Luke's best sources were certainly the aging apostle, Matthew, and John Mark, both authors of gospels. The earliest gospel was Mark's. Both Luke and Matthew made use of it.

But it didn't satisfy the questioning Luke.

While he lived in Caesarea, Mark came there briefly to renew his service in Paul's far-flung missionary work. Mark had timidly withdrawn from the risky venture before, but in Paul's present trouble, he returned.

* * *

LUKE THEN was staying at the hospitable stone house of Philip, a seasoned evangelist with four spirited, cultured daughters. Like Luke, they spoke Greek and Hebrew. The young convert, Timothy, and other co-workers also were there.

It was an ideal opportunity for Luke to confer with Mark who had been closely associated with the saintly, bighearted old Peter. Mark, for his literary assistance, was called the chief apostle's interpreter.

Surely, Peter had related all manner of things about Jesus. Could not Mark pass on some clarification of the early period?

As they conversed—the clean-shaven Greek and the bearded Jew—they strolled, perchance, along the paved promenade beside the city's man-made harbor.

Luke rubbed his chin, glancing sidewise at Mark. Had he obtained no details about the birth of Jesus? For truly, this was the core of the whole movement, the incarnation of God as man.

* * *

MARK'S BROW furrowed, his gaze on the sea. No, no he was not certain. Peter did not dwell on those first things. Perhaps he had mentioned it. But...Mark shook his head.

Luke persisted. But have you not asked the first apostle about this wonder? Can you offer no light on our Lord's infancy and childhood? Being a man as well as our redeemer, he must have grown up, even as you and I?

Shortly thereafter, Mark was sent by Paul to work in Colossae. From his cell, Paul dispatched an introductory letter for him.

Mark, who had been a lad, the son of a wealthy widow of Jerusalem when Jesus was crucified there, recounted in his short gospel only the days of Jesus' adult ministry—the phase shared and known well by Peter—nothing else!

Luke used much of this material—350 of Mark's 661 verses—some of it condensed and improved in phraseology and medical particulars, all with exacting accuracy. But Luke also sought the fuller record.

Through the apostle, Matthew, the one-time tax collector, Luke secured considerable guidance, obtaining data from an old "collection of sayings" by Jesus, which Matthew had, and which now is often called the "Q" document (for the German "quelle" or source).

THE RESULT is reflected in 238 verses common to the gospels of Luke and Matthew. Matthew also provided some insight into the beginnings of the holy visitation, the mystical aspects which had fascinated Luke.

The apostle told of Joseph's worried perplexity in Nazareth when Mary became heavy with child, and of his eventual understanding of her condition as an act of God—that she had conceived "of the holy spirit."

But in terse, restricted passages that cry out for amplification, Matthew specifies only that Jesus was "born in Bethlehem," and promptly, skips a year or two ahead—to the visit and gifts of the wise men.

He also sketches King Herod's panic at reports of the Eastern magi about the display of a great star; and tells of the Herod-ordered massacre of Bethlehem children, of the baby Jesus being spirited to Egypt, and eventually back to Nazareth.

* * *

THAT IS ALL. Of the majestic, supreme moment, when God took on the disguise of a human infant, of the instant when heaven and earth met, there was nothing else.

Why was the birth in Bethlehem when the couple lived in Nazareth? What was the year? No hint was given—only that it was sometime in the 37-year reign of Herod. The record of such a prodigious event was all too scanty.

Was the birth altogether normal? Who was there? Was it in a palace or a hovel? Had the mother known of the miraculous circumstances—and consequences? What secrets did she bear? What did she do? What was the child like?

In the guest chamber of Philip's house, where Luke maintained a small, temporary infirmary, he packed his supplies in a leather pouch, and prepared for a journey.

He himself, before it was too late, would have to track down the facts.

(NEXT: A trip to Galilee).

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—As in many American homes across the land, spicy and inviting aromas are floating from kitchens on Embassy Row while the diplomats' cooks bustle about preparing the traditional holiday goodies of their native lands.

Plum puddings, fruit cake, julekake, meat pies, buns and breads, and numerous little cakes and cookies of many different flavors, pretty to look at and good to eat, are being whipped up according to time-honored custom. Most of the wives are hoping to have at least one holiday offering typical of the country they represent.

Mrs. Munthe de Morgenstierne, wife of the Norwegian ambassador, has a special treat for guests during the Yule season. It's made weeks in advance and is called "Mother Monson's Cake." Here's the recipe:

Two cups of melted butter, 2 cups sugar, 10 eggs, 3 cups white flour, 1 cup chopped almonds, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 teaspoon baking powder. Mix like cake, in a shallow pan. Cover with chopped almonds and crushed cube sugar. Bake until light yellow in moderate (350 degree) oven. Cut in diamond-shaped pieces and store in tins.

At the Swedish Embassy the holiday begins with celebration of St. Lucia Day, Dec. 13. Then Ambassador and Mrs. Erik Boheman have a party for children of embassy personnel and serve newly-baked Lucia buns and cakes while they sing "Santa Lucia." Celebrated by Swedes everywhere, the festival honors a Christian maiden martyred under the Roman emperor Diocletian and falls on the date when daylight will increase after the dark months. Here, as wherever Swedes are gathered, a pretty girl is chosen to represent Lucia. Attired in white robe, with lighted candles in a wreath she leads the singing and serves the sweets.

Mrs. Francoise Chatelain, pretty brunette wife of the new first secretary of the Swiss embassy, expects to serve a traditional sweet of her country on this, her first Christmas here. It's a light, rich cake flavored with cocoa, called "La Buche de Noel." "It looks like a piece of a log," she said.

A "country chop" is the holiday dish of Liberia, Mrs. George Padmore, wife of the ambassador tells me. This is not what you think. It's a native dish made of rice, chicken, meat, green leaf and oil from the palm.

In South Australia, Royal Flying Doctor Service aircraft flew more than 56,000 miles in 1956 to assist patients in remote areas. About 170 flights were in response to radio calls for urgent help.

* * *

LUKE THEN was staying at the hospitable stone house of Philip, a seasoned evangelist with four spirited, cultured daughters. Like Luke, they spoke Greek and Hebrew. The young convert, Timothy, and other co-workers also were there.

It was an ideal opportunity for Luke to confer with Mark who had been closely associated with the saintly, bighearted old Peter. Mark, for his literary assistance, was called the chief apostle's interpreter.

Surely, Peter had related all manner of things about Jesus. Could not Mark pass on some clarification of the early period?

As they conversed—the cleanshaven Greek and the bearded Jew—they strolled, perchance, along the paved promenade beside the city's man-made harbor.

Luke rubbed his chin, glancing sidewise at Mark. Had he obtained no details about the birth of Jesus? For truly, this was the core of the whole movement, the incarnation of God as man.

* * *

MARK'S BROW furrowed, his gaze on the sea. No, no he was not certain. Peter did not dwell on those first things. Perhaps he had mentioned it. But...Mark shook his head.

Luke persisted. But have you not asked the first apostle about this wonder? Can you offer no light on our Lord's infancy and childhood? Being a man as well as our redeemer, he must have grown up, even as you and I?

Shortly thereafter, Mark was sent by Paul to work in Colossae. From his cell, Paul dispatched an introductory letter for him.

Mark, who had been a lad, the son of a wealthy widow of Jerusalem when Jesus was crucified there, recounted in his short gospel only the days of Jesus' adult ministry—the phase shared and known well by Peter—nothing else!

Luke used much of this material—350 of Mark's 661 verses—some of it condensed and improved in phraseology and medical particulars, all with exacting accuracy. But Luke also sought the fuller record.

Through the apostle, Matthew, the one-time tax collector, Luke secured considerable guidance, obtaining data from an old "collection of sayings" by Jesus, which Matthew had, and which now is often called the "Q" document (for the German "quelle" or source).

THE RESULT is reflected in 238 verses common to the gospels of Luke and Matthew. Matthew also provided some insight into the beginnings of the holy visitation, the mystical aspects which had fascinated Luke.

The apostle told of Joseph's worried perplexity in Nazareth when Mary became heavy with child, and of his eventual understanding of her condition as an act of God—that she had conceived "of the holy spirit."

But in terse, restricted passages that cry out for amplification, Matthew specifies only that Jesus was "born in Bethlehem," and promptly, skips a year or two ahead—to the visit and gifts of the wise men.

He also sketches King Herod's panic at reports of the Eastern magi about the display of a great star; and tells of the Herod-ordered massacre of Bethlehem children, of the baby Jesus being spirited to Egypt, and eventually back to Nazareth.

* * *

THAT IS ALL. Of the majestic, supreme moment, when God took on the disguise of a human infant, of the instant when heaven and earth met, there was nothing else.

Why was the birth in Bethlehem when the couple lived in Nazareth? What was the year? No hint was given—only that it was sometime in the 37-year reign of Herod. The record of such a prodigious event was all too scanty.

Was the birth altogether normal? Who was there? Was it in a palace or a hovel? Had the mother known of the miraculous circumstances—and consequences? What secrets did she bear? What did she do? What was the child like?

In the guest chamber of Philip's house, where Luke maintained a small, temporary infirmary, he packed his supplies in a leather pouch, and prepared for a journey.

He himself, before it was too late, would have to track down the facts.

LITTLE BRIDESMAID—Elizabeth Goldsmith, 3, awaits her march down the aisle in Paris as bridesmaid for Victoria Lopez y Patino, niece of Bolivian "tin king" Antenor Patino. Patino made headlines when he tried to prevent his daughter from marrying Elizabeth's father, James Goldsmith. The couple eloped, but the bride died when Elizabeth was born.

Traditional Holiday Goodies Brewed Along Embassy Row

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—As in many American homes across the land, spicy and inviting aromas are floating from kitchens on Embassy Row while the diplomats' cooks bustle about preparing the traditional holiday goodies of their native lands.

Plum puddings, fruit cake, julekake, meat pies, buns and breads, and numerous little cakes and cookies of many different flavors, pretty to look at and good to eat, are being whipped up according to time-honored custom. Most of the wives are hoping to have at least one holiday offering typical of the country they represent.

Mrs. Munthe de Morgenstierne, wife of the Norwegian ambassador, has a special treat for guests during the Yule season. It's made weeks in advance and is called "Mother Monson's Cake." Here's the recipe:

Two cups of melted butter, 2 cups sugar, 10 eggs, 3 cups white flour, 1 cup chopped almonds, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 teaspoon baking powder. Mix like cake, in a shallow pan. Cover with chopped almonds and crushed cube sugar. Bake until light yellow in moderate (350 degree) oven. Cut in diamond-shaped pieces and store in tins.

At the Swedish Embassy the holiday begins with celebration of St. Lucia Day, Dec. 13. Then Ambassador and Mrs. Erik Boheman have a party for children of embassy personnel and serve newly-baked Lucia buns and cakes while they sing "Santa Lucia." Celebrated by Swedes everywhere, the festival honors a Christian maiden martyred under the Roman emperor Diocletian and falls on the date when daylight will increase after the dark months. Here, as wherever Swedes are gathered, a pretty girl is chosen to represent Lucia. Attired in white robe, with lighted candles in a wreath she leads the singing and serves the sweets.

Mrs. Francoise Chatelain, pretty brunette wife of the new first secretary of the Swiss embassy, expects to serve a traditional sweet of her country on this, her first Christmas here. It's a light, rich cake flavored with cocoa, called "La Buche de Noel." "It looks like a piece of a log," she said.

A "country chop" is the holiday dish of Liberia, Mrs. George Padmore, wife of the ambassador tells me. This is not what you think. It's a native dish made of rice, chicken, meat, green leaf and oil from the palm.

In South Australia, Royal Flying Doctor Service aircraft flew more than 56,000 miles in 1956 to assist patients in remote areas. About 170 flights were in response to radio calls for urgent help.

Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Richard escapes from the Green Ghoul and takes the golden thread back to Santa Land. Now, said Santa, he must bring him the black diamond from the third finger of the Phantom of the Sea.

CHAPTER 14
THE PHANTOM

Richard was no longer happy. The very thought of the Phantom of the Sea caused his knees to tremble and his heart to pound.

"It will take a smart, brave boy to bring back that diamond," taunted Patrick Tweedleknees, "and anyone can plainly see you're dumb and scared. Better go back where you came from and play with rubber balloons like the baby you are."

He tossed an unfilled balloon at the boy. Richard picked it up and put it in his pocket. He swallowed hard and turned to Santa. "I guess I'll be going," he mumbled.

"I told you so!" shouted Tweedleknees.

"I am going to get the black diamond," went on Richard unhappily. "Please tell me the way."

Santa smiled. "Go into the setting sun until you come to a red sea. That is where the Phantom lives."

Richard did as he was told. For two days and a night he trudged westward. Late in the afternoon of the second day he saw ahead of him a great sea whose waters boiled red under the setting sun.

As he came closer the sun sank lower and lower. At last it dropped into the red sea and all the land was black.

"Who are you and why have you come to my sea?"

Richard tried to speak but he could not find his voice. He wanted to turn and run but he could not move his legs.

The phantom voice blared again.

He found himself in an underwater palace.

"Speak! I command you!"

Richard opened his mouth. "I am Prince Richard," he said in a very small voice. "I have come to see the black diamond on your finger."

"That is an evil errand," howled the Phantom. "You shall suffer for having thought of it."

Richard felt a warm breath against his face. He threw out his hands and felt the slimy body of the Phantom. He twisted back the Phantom's arm and held him locked in his grip. He caught the Phantom's hand and felt the diamond on the third finger.

But even as he began to draw off the diamond the sea boiled up and the waves rolled in and swept him off his feet. He tried to let go of the Phantom but he was locked against him and dragged into the sea.

He gasped for breath. The water swept into his mouth. His eyes bulged. His ears rang. He felt that in another instant he would be no more.

Then suddenly he was free from the Phantom.

He opened his eyes and found himself in a red palace deep in the sea. Though he was under water he could breathe and see. He gazed in astonishment at the splendid furnishings of the palace and at the fish which swam lazily around his head.

At the end of the hall he saw a creature on a red throne. He knew it was the Phantom.

The Phantom was round and long and slippery. His head was pointed and his eyes bulged. On his feet were giant flippers.

He looked at Richard. "Never before," said he, "has anyone twisted the arm of the Phantom. As a punishment I sentence you to spend the rest of your days in this palace under the sea!"

Embassy Wives Cook, Sew Collect for Charity Events

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wives of foreign diplomats and American officials agree there is no better way to promote world understanding and get to know each other than to work together on a money-raising project.

"We all experience the same headaches and frustrations and reap the same satisfactions, whether the benefit is an international tea, a bazaar, or a fashion show," explains Mrs. Mastin G. White, wife of a commissioner on the U.S. Court of Claims. "A bazaar is a bazaar in any language."

Mrs. White, chairman of a recent benefit at the local YWCA in which Embassy Row wives from 30 different nations joined, says the women who worked together many long hours planning and staging the event, found the effort "gratifying and interesting."

Preceding the affair the women putting on the international buffet luncheon, a bazaar, fashion show and tea met informally to discuss decorations, prices, quantities and timing.

Many of the diplomatic wives cooked up native dishes in their embassy kitchens to be featured on the round-the-world menu. Mrs. Shao-Hwa Tan, wife of the Chinese minister, directing her country's ninth year of participation in the food fair, brought 2,500 egg rolls. Another Chinese wife brought dainty doll clothes for the bazaar booth.

Mrs. M. D. Shahane, wife of the Indian press attache, brought 400 "Samosas" a fried pastry ball filled with a spiced mixture of potatoes, peas, onions and green pepper. Mrs. Thant Gyi brought Burmese fried onion cakes.

Mrs. Hassan A. Dawood, wife of the counselor of the Egyptian embassy, brought two whole roast stuffed lambs. There were Belgian biscuits, Dutch chocolate, Korean rice cookies, German star cookies, Italian eclairs.

"The wives were helping to do what women do all over the world," said Mrs. White, who gave a post-benefit "Texas coffee" in her home to initiate the foreign wives into a typical bit of regional Americana.

Guarantor Tickets Now Available for Two SMG Concert

Guarantors' tickets for the two concerts to be sponsored by the Washington C. H. Sunday Musicale Group are now ready, and members of the organization of young musicians are suggesting that they would make excellent Christmas gifts.

Miss Joy Strausbaugh, pianist now studying at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music will appear here Tuesday, Jan. 28, and the Chillicothe Little Symphony Orchestra, under the baton DeWitt Thornton, Washington High School graduate, is booked for Tuesday, Feb. 25.

Both concerts will be in the WHS auditorium.

Guarantors are accepting five tickets each to the two performance. Individual tickets for the pair of concerts, at one dollar each, will be available later.

Posters advertising the winter musicales are being distributed. They were prepared by Katherine Sagar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sagar Sr., and Hannah Case, daughter of Judge and Mrs. John P. Case, both of whom are members of the sponsoring group.

The first submarine that actually sank another vessel was the Confederate Hunley, built during the Civil war. It sank the Union frigate Housantonic in Charleston harbor.

Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Richard escapes from the Green Ghoul and takes the golden thread back to Santa Land. Now, said Santa, he must bring him the black diamond from the third finger of the Phantom of the Sea.

CHAPTER 14
THE PHANTOM

Richard was no longer happy. The very thought of the Phantom of the Sea caused his knees to tremble and his heart to pound.

"It will take a smart, brave boy to bring back that diamond," taunted Patrick Tweedleknees, "and anyone can plainly see you're dumb and scared. Better go back where you came from and play with rubber balloons like the baby you are."

He tossed an unfilled balloon at the boy. Richard picked it up and put it in his pocket. He swallowed hard and turned to Santa. "I guess I'll be going," he mumbled.

"I told you so!" shouted Tweedleknees.

"I am going to get the black diamond," went on Richard unhappily. "Please tell me the way."

Santa smiled. "Go into the setting sun until you come to a red sea. That is where the Phantom lives."

Richard did as he was told. For two days and a night he trudged westward. Late in the afternoon of the second day he saw ahead of him a great sea whose waters boiled red under the setting sun.

As he came closer the sun sank lower and lower. At last it dropped into the red sea and all the land was black.

"Who are you and why have you come to my sea?"

Richard tried to speak but he could not find his voice. He wanted to turn and run but he could not move his legs.

The phantom voice blared again.

He found himself in an underwater palace.

"Speak! I command you!"

Richard opened his mouth. "I am Prince Richard," he said in a very small voice. "I have come to see the black diamond on your finger."

"That is an evil errand," howled the Phantom. "You shall suffer for having thought of it."

Richard felt a warm breath against his face. He threw out his hands and felt the slimy body of the Phantom. He twisted back the Phantom's arm and held him locked in his grip. He caught the Phantom's hand and felt the diamond on the third finger.

But even as he began to draw off the diamond the sea boiled up and the waves rolled in and swept him off his feet. He tried to let go of the Phantom but he was locked against him and dragged into the sea.

He gasped for breath. The water swept into his mouth. His eyes bulged. His ears rang. He felt that in another instant he would be no more.

Then suddenly he was free from the Phantom.

He opened his eyes and found himself in a red palace deep in the sea. Though he was under water he could breathe and see. He gazed in astonishment at the splendid furnishings of the palace and at the fish which swam lazily around his head.

At the end of the hall he saw a creature on a red throne. He knew it was the Phantom.

The Phantom was round and long and slippery. His head was pointed and his eyes bulged. On his feet were giant flippers.

He looked at Richard. "Never before," said he, "has anyone twisted the arm of the Phantom. As a punishment I sentence you to spend the rest of your days in this palace under the sea!"

Embassy Wives Cook, Sew Collect for Charity Events

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wives of foreign diplomats and American officials agree there is no better way to promote world understanding and get to know each other than to work together on a money-raising project.

"We all experience the same headaches and frustrations and reap the same satisfactions, whether the benefit is an international tea, a bazaar, or a fashion show," explains Mrs. Mastin G. White, wife of a commissioner on the U.S. Court of Claims. "A bazaar is a bazaar in any language."

Mrs. White, chairman of a recent benefit at the local YWCA in which Embassy Row wives from 30 different nations joined, says the women who worked together many long hours planning and staging the event, found the effort "gratifying and interesting."

Preceding the affair the women putting on the international buffet luncheon, a bazaar, fashion show and tea met informally to discuss decorations, prices, quantities and timing.

Many of the diplomatic wives cooked up native dishes in their embassy kitchens to be featured on the round-the-world menu. Mrs. Shao-Hwa Tan, wife of the Chinese minister, directing her country's ninth year of participation in the food fair, brought 2,500 egg rolls. Another Chinese wife brought dainty doll clothes for the bazaar booth.

Mrs. M. D. Shahane, wife of the Indian press attache, brought 400 "Samosas" a fried pastry ball filled with a spiced mixture of potatoes, peas, onions and green pepper. Mrs. Thant Gyi brought Burmese fried onion cakes.

Mrs. Hassan A. Dawood, wife of the counselor of the Egyptian embassy, brought two whole roast stuffed lambs. There were Belgian biscuits, Dutch chocolate, Korean rice cookies, German star cookies, Italian eclairs.

"The wives were helping to do what women do all over the world," said Mrs. White, who gave a post-benefit "Texas coffee" in her home to initiate the foreign wives into a typical bit of regional Americana.

Guarantor Tickets Now Available for Two SMG Concert

Guarantors' tickets for the two concerts to be sponsored by the Washington C. H. Sunday Musicale Group are now ready, and members of the organization of young musicians are suggesting that they would make excellent Christmas gifts.

Miss Joy Strausbaugh, pianist now studying at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music will appear here Tuesday, Jan. 28, and the Chillicothe Little Symphony Orchestra, under the baton DeWitt Thornton, Washington High School graduate, is booked for Tuesday, Feb. 25.

Both concerts will be in the WHS auditorium.

Guarantors are accepting five tickets each to the two performance. Individual tickets for the pair of concerts, at one dollar each, will be available later.

Posters advertising the winter musicales are being distributed. They were prepared by Katherine Sagar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sagar Sr., and Hannah Case, daughter of Judge and Mrs. John P. Case, both of whom are members of the sponsoring group.

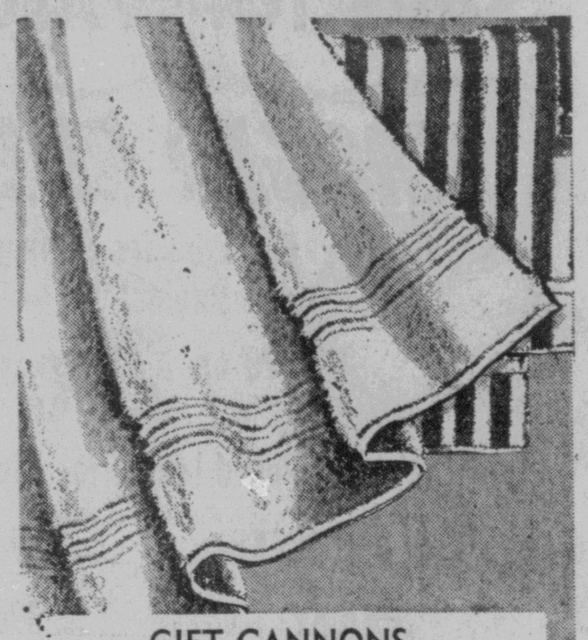

The first submarine that actually sank another vessel was the Confederate Hunley, built during the Civil war. It sank the Union frigate Housantonic in Charleston harbor.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

I saw Santa Claus standing on the corner of Fayette and Court Sts! !

I recognized him, not by any rotund appearance, red suit, white whiskers or headgear but by the Christmas packages in his arms and stacked about his feet.

It was evident that Santa was was waiting for someone, and inasmuch as he looked suspiciously like a well known farmer in Madison Township, I approached him with:

"Hello Santa Claus! Are you stranded?"

I was rewarded with a characteristic smile and the information "I am waiting on Betsy!" (I took it that Betsy was his wife)

We talked a short while, and then all of a sudden Mrs. Santa Claus appeared, with her arms full of packages, and I knew that Santa and Mrs. Santa were ready to take off on their journey to make some little tots very happy with just about what they want for Christmas.

"JOURNEY BREAD"

Some of the Indians who lived in Fayette County and this part of Ohio, as well as some of the early frontiersmen, carried with them while they were making a lengthy trip (on foot in those days) a leather bag containing "journey bread."

This "journey bread" was very palatable and nourishing, and when used with wild game such as deer, buffalo, bear, turkey or other meat abundant at the time, proved a very satisfactory food.

History records that even "Johnny Appleseed" (John Chapman) who by the way, was quite a different character from what most of us have been led to believe by fragmentary information concerning him is said to have used "journey bread" when he could get it.

"Journey bread" was made by boiling corn on the cob (green corn) until it was about half cooked, drying it in the sun for a few days, then browning it in hot ashes or over coals of fire, after which it was pounded until fine and then mixed with maple sugar.

This very wholesome product was originated by the Indians and adopted by the pioneers, but in all probability no "journey bread" has been made in Fayette County for at least 100 years.

"Journey bread" was used extensively in the war of 1812 at which time the recipe for making it was widely published.

FIRST LAMBS HERE

I have noticed two or three farms where the first lambs of the season have arrived, and apparently are doing well.

Used to be that lambs were scheduled to arrive late in the winter or early spring, but many farmers now arrange for the first arrivals to come late in the fall so they will have a better market when the lambs are ready for sale.

Reports indicate that the fall lambs go though the winter in good condition, and bring higher prices than the lambs do which arrive later in the season and go into an already glutted market.

TRUCKS RUIN PLASTER

For years I have heard increasing reports of vibration from heavy trucks usually traveling at excessive speed on main routes, causing plastering in homes and other buildings to crack and finally give way under the continued vibrations.

Some of the 30,000 to 50,000 pound trucks (including loads) cause a pronounced rattle of windows and shake premises generally as they dash through the streets and over the highways.

In this manner a great deal of property damage has resulted, as well as a great many nerves jangled.

GOOD OLD SORGHUM

It has been many years since sugar cane was grown to any pronounced extend in Fayette County, and sorghum molasses made by home-owned equipment.

Now it is rather difficult to obtain home-made sorghum molasses of the high quality which formerly characterized the syrup produced on farms in the community.

In those days the sorghum makers were usually experts, who took real pride in producing top sorghum syrup. In those days it sold for 25 cents a gallon, but like all other products the price has been mounting as the years have gone by.

Good sorghum syrup is a wonderful food by reason of the natural mineral elements it contains, and there is not nearly so much of it used as there should be. It is healthful and not just something sweet with little food value.

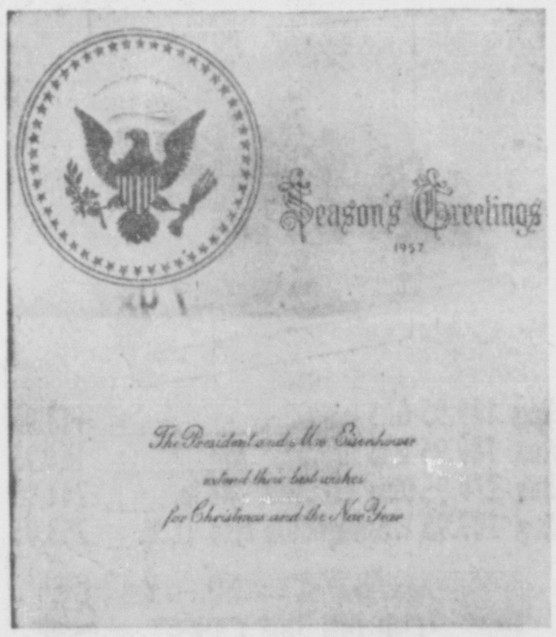

One of the men who could qualify as expert sorghum syrup makers is James A. Blackemore, 432 Clyburn Ave., who formerly lived in Pike County, where from 1890 until about 1905 or later, he went from farm to farm with a portable syrup-making outfit, and made the product for the cane growers for 10 cents a gallon. He made tens of thousands of gallons of syrup.

His equipment included a cane mill with a sweep to which he hitched one horse, alternating the horse with another every few hours He also had a metal furnace with pan and evaporator (on rollers).

Before he started out to make sorghum for others, Jim always made up the Blakemores' own supply of syrup usually several hundred gallons, and he sometimes made as much for various neighbors, some of whom found it necessary to place fodder about their sugar cane to prevent it freezing. Frozen cane will not produce good syrup.

For months after the sorghum was made, people from a wide area would apply at the homes of those who had it, usually bringing one or more gallon or two-gallon jugs, and paying 25 cents a gallon for the product.

At present I know of no syrup making mill that has been operated in Fayette County in recent years.

$19 Billion In Cash Being Saved in '57

Federal Agency Lists Nearly $200 Billion In Personal Savings

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — This may come as a shock to the host of citizens who are having a hard time making both ends meet but a government agency says that this year Americans are socking away some 19 billion dollars in savings.

The Securities & Exchange Commission puts accumulated personal savings of all kinds at 680 billion dollars in its latest report.

Personal debt has been climbing too. It is now well over 200 billion dollars.

Nearly 200 billion dollars of personal savings are readily changeable for cash by withdrawal, redemption or sale. These include: 52 billion dollars in commercial bank deposits; 31 billion in mutual savings banks; 40 billion in savings and loan associations; 3 billion in credit unions; 1½ billion in postal savings; 49 billion in U. S. savings bonds; 19 billion in other U. S. government securities.

Individuals also hold billions of dollars worth of corporate stocks and bonds, of mortgages, and of state and local government securities with which they could raise cash.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va., in its December review lists four ways of saving. The first is the familiar one of putting left-over money in banks or securities. This is the kind of saving plan that is the most easily wrecked by emergencies or impulse buying.

Second is contracting to make periodic payments to provide for old age or to protect the family in the event of death or disaster—pensions and insurance of various kinds.

Third in the view of bankers is the repayment of loans or instalment indebtedness—which means saving to pay for something you already are using, rather than the old fashioned way of saving to be able to buy something.

The bank lists as fourth the investment of dollars directly in durable goods which will provide services in the future, such as cars, washing machines, furniture, houses. The bank holds this is saving because they've spent money to consume the services of the goods not consume the goods themselves as you do when you buy food, clothing or gasoline.

Economists watch the rate of savings closely. It has a bearing on retail trade. It forms the reservoir of funds for investment to be tapped by corporations to build plants and carry inventories. The rate of saving often can foretell coming economic trends.

The Sudan is about the size of the United States east of the Mississippi River.

Slides, Viewer to Hospital

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE

By WILLIAM RITT

"I'VE JUST HAD the most dreadful news from the Post Office," Santa groans. "All the letters written by children listing toys they wished for were being sent to me by sky train when an awful thing happened!

"A RUNAWAY windstorm happened to come across the path of the sky train," Santa continues. "The mischievous little storm swooped down on the tow planes carrying those precious millions of letters!

"WITH A WHOOSH! the letters were scattered in all directions and then carried far, far above the world, 'way up into space so distant from the earth that they cannot fall back to it again! Oh! this is truly dreadful!

It Isn't Much of a Problem Here but Should a Cop Accept a Gift?

What's the difference between Yuletide good will and genteel bribery?

That's a problem that plagues public officials of all sorts at this time of year. Among them: Police Chief D. Vaiden Long of Washington C. H.

Chief Long realizes there's nothing wrong with him or his men accepting "an expression of gratitude" at the Christmas season. But he also knows that gratitude has been defined as "a healthy appreciation of favors to come."

And so he's faced with the problem, at this season of the year, of deciding whether a proferred Christmas gift is a gift or not.

* * *

OVER THE YEARS, the chief says he hasn't actually had too much trouble with the matter. Washington C. H. has none of the problems with professional gamblers, construction gypsters and slum landlords which some big cities have.

But nevertheless, the chief has evolved a set of Christmas gift, principles for himself and his force, to be used in deciding the borderline cases.

"If a man wants to give an officer a cigar or a pack of cigarettes because he likes him or because the officer has helped him out, I'm not going to raise my voice," the chief said cautioning: "But if the man starts giving in wholesale lots, I'll put a stop to it."

* * *

HE POINTED that there are some people (for example, reporters, undertakers and the bosses of large industries) who receive a lot of perfectly legitimate aid from police.

"If the department gets a basket of fruit or a box of cigars from someone of this sort, I think we can be excused for accepting it."

He made it especially clear, however, that if he hears of any officer making anything resembleing a "solicitation", there's going to be trouble.

City patrolmen (often closer to the flow of "gratitude gifts" than their boss) bore out the chief's statements that there's not much of a problem here.

* * *

"A LITTLE STUFF comes in here at Christmas," one officer said, "but not much." He pointed out that officers don't expect it, and that most of them won't even go out of their way to get a share of what does come in.

The officer did reflect one apparently common police sentiment, though, which may indicate why many officers "won't even go out of their way."

He observed: "If someone gives a post man a pack of cigarettes, why it's a nice, friendly gesture. But if the same person gives it to a cop, it's a bribe."

"Naturally, even the cops, who don't expect gifts, get a little sour at that," he said.

Ohio Highway Spending Reaches All-Time High

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio spent an all-time high of $290,366,106 for the 1957 highway construction and improvement program, the Ohio Department of Highways announced Wednesday. The state is expected to rank among the top five states in value of work put under contract.

The 1957 program includes 453 miles of new construction, either underway or under contract.

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown soon will appoint 176 members of county election boards which run Ohio's voting machinery.

Each of Ohio's 88 county boards will get one Republican and one Democratic member to serve for four years starting March 1. Others on the four-member boards began their terms in 1956.

Brown, credited with giving Ohio one of the nation's best election systems, customarily follows recommendations of county Democratic and Republican executive committees in making the appointments.

But Ohio's chief elections official has disregarded them on occasions when he felt that those recommended failed to measure up to his standards. As a result, committees are increasingly more careful in their selections.

Commenting on the importance of election officials near the "grass roots" level, Brown said:

"They are as important, if not more so, than any other public official because of the necessity of having efficient and honest elections. They must put partisan politics aside to make fair decisions."

Brown makes it a practice to personally interview all new appointees recommended by the local committees. If he is not satisfied after the interviews, he calls for another recommendation before acting on his own.

Statute requires committees to make recommendations not more than 60 days, nor less than 15 days, before Feb. 28. He said some committees already have set the date for their meetings.

The two-party boards are entrusted by law with the duty of establishing election precincts, providing for voter registrations where they are required, holding elections and keeping records of all voting.

Board members supervise approximately 130,000 people who work for them during elections in some 12,000 polling places over the state.

Members themselves are employes of the state but are paid by their counties on the basis of population. Salary limits range between $600 and $6,000 a year.

Ohio has strict laws governing selection of board chairmen and clerks.

Within five days after appointments are made, boards must name one of their members to serve as chairman at meetings. They also must pick an elector of their county, who is not a board member, to serve as clerk. Clerks and chairmen, who serve for two years, must be of opposite political parties.

Counties with cities of 16,000 or more population, in which voter registration is mandatory, are required to have deputy clerks unless a board majority decides otherwise. Clerks and their deputies also must be of different political faiths.

Balloting for such officers must begin not later than 1 p.m. at the organization meetings. At least one ballot is required every 20 minutes until five ballots have been taken in case of deadlocks over a clerk. Then the secretary of state is empowered to break those deadlocks.

If a chairman is not selected on the first ballot, the board member, of opposite politics from the clerk, having the shortest term to serve shall be declared chairman by law.

Reds Rated Only Third In Nuclear Physics

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Hans Bethe of Cornell, one of the world's top atomic physicists places the Russians no better than third in nuclear physics.

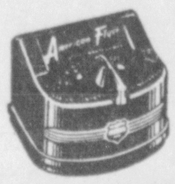

The Cornell University expert said America is way ahead of every other country and the British are second. However, Dr. Bethe described the race as close.

Ohio Election Chief Plans Appointing 176 Poll Aides

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown soon will appoint 176 members of county election boards which run Ohio's voting machinery.

Each of Ohio's 88 county boards will get one Republican and one Democratic member to serve for four years starting March 1. Others on the four-member boards began their terms in 1956.

Brown, credited with giving Ohio one of the nation's best election systems, customarily follows recommendations of county Democratic and Republican executive committees in making the appointments.

But Ohio's chief elections official has disregarded them on occasions when he felt that those recommended failed to measure up to his standards. As a result, committees are increasingly more careful in their selections.

Commenting on the importance of election officials near the "grass roots" level, Brown said:

"They are as important, if not more so, than any other public official because of the necessity of having efficient and honest elections. They must put partisan politics aside to make fair decisions."

Brown makes it a practice to personally interview all new appointees recommended by the local committees. If he is not satisfied after the interviews, he calls for another recommendation before acting on his own.

Statute requires committees to make recommendations not more than 60 days, nor less than 15 days, before Feb. 28. He said some committees already have set the date for their meetings.

The two-party boards are entrusted by law with the duty of establishing election precincts, providing for voter registrations where they are required, holding elections and keeping records of all voting.

Board members supervise approximately 130,000 people who work for them during elections in some 12,000 polling places over the state.

Members themselves are employes of the state but are paid by their counties on the basis of population. Salary limits range between $600 and $6,000 a year.

Ohio has strict laws governing selection of board chairmen and clerks.

Within five days after appointments are made, boards must name one of their members to serve as chairman at meetings. They also must pick an elector of their county, who is not a board member, to serve as clerk. Clerks and chairmen, who serve for two years, must be of opposite political parties.

Counties with cities of 16,000 or more population, in which voter registration is mandatory, are required to have deputy clerks unless a board majority decides otherwise. Clerks and their deputies also must be of different political faiths.

Balloting for such officers must begin not later than 1 p.m. at the organization meetings. At least one ballot is required every 20 minutes until five ballots have been taken in case of deadlocks over a clerk. Then the secretary of state is empowered to break those deadlocks.

If a chairman is not selected on the first ballot, the board member, of opposite politics from the clerk, having the shortest term to serve shall be declared chairman by law.

Reds Rated Only Third In Nuclear Physics

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Hans Bethe of Cornell, one of the world's top atomic physicists places the Russians no better than third in nuclear physics.

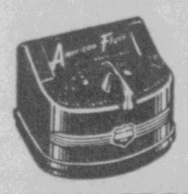

The Cornell University expert said America is way ahead of every other country and the British are second. However, Dr. Bethe described the race as close.

Student Is Suspended

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Minnie Brown, one of the nine Negroes at Central High School, was suspended indefinitely Tuesday for dumping her food on two white boys in a fit of temper, school authorities said.

Judge Ponders Role of Labor Mediators

Must Federal Aide Testify on Private Negotiation Talks?

CLEVELAND (AP) — Federal Judge Paul C. Weick today will take up the question whether federal mediators in labor disputes may be compelled to testify concerning facts developed in private negotiating sessions.

The question arose when attorneys for the Communications Workers of America sought to question T. W. Robertson, a conciliation commissioner, on what happened during negotiating sessions between the CWA and the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

CWA is suing in U.S. District Court for an order to force the company to put into effect new contract terms negotiated last October. When the terms had been negotiated, the CWA ordered 18,500 Ohio Bell workers back to work while talks continued on a strike termination agreement proposed by the company.

The union refused to sign the strike termination agreement, and the company refused to sign a contract without such an agreement. The Bell employes are still working under terms of their old contract.

The union claims that agreement on basic contract terms constitutes a full settlement since the company made no mention of the proposed strike termination agreement until after contract terms had been agreed on. The company says the strike termination agreement was part of a package contract offered.

Col. George Strong, general counsel for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and U.S. Atty. Sumner Canary objected when a union attorney questioned Robertson Wednesday on whether anything was said in the negotiating sessions about a "back-to-work agreement."

Strong told Judge Weick federal mediators are forbidden by regulations and from public policy to give testimony conerning what is disclosed to them in their mediation activities.

The judge said this raised the question "whether or not by regulation and administrative agency can prevent a court from inquiry into facts of a case."

All parties were asked to submit briefs today on cases covering the point he raised.

Police Hanging Out Greetings, not Tickets

The cards read: "We know you are doing Christmas shopping and this violation is an oversight on your part. We shall appreciate your cooperation in the future. Best wishes for a merry Christmas."

1957 Crop Value Less Than 1956's

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crops produced by farmers this year had a value of $17,546,892,000 or about 6.5 per cent less than last year's value of $18,781,124,000, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The agency did not give figures on the value of livestock and livestock products produced this year.

The department said that despite the decline in the value of crops, farm income itself is expected to be slightly larger than last year. The increase largely would reflect a bigger amount of government payments to producers.

The value of crops was based on final production estimates and average prices received during the marketing season.

Corn continued to top all crops with a value of $3,991,111,000 compared with $4,459,465,000 last year. Prices were said to be averaging $1.17 a bushel compared with $1.29 last year.

Hay was second with a value of $2,286,350,000 compared with $2,-c20 czzlbylczzc ra714aes 19 303,616,000 last year. Wheat was third at $1,839,440,000 compared with $1,974,174,00 last year.

Other crops which had a lower value this year than last included flaxseed, rice, cotton, cottonseed, dry beans, dry peas, peanuts, potatoes, tobacco, apples, peaches, pears, apricots, oranges, grapefruit, lemons, limes, pecans, and almonds.

Crops which had a higher value included oats, barley, sorghum grain, soybeans, sugarcane, sugar beets, hops, sweet potatoes, grapes, cherries, plums and broomcorn.

The value of other crops this year and last, respectively, included:

Oats $83,493,000 this year and $800,513,000 last; barley $379,529,000 and $370,752,00; rye $29,187,-

Soybeans $1,04,934,000 and $980,747,000; tobacco $958,052,000 and $1,169,795,000.

Sugar beets $169,169,000 and $155,281,000; apples $219,111,000 and $236,870,000; peaches $130,134,00 and $141,523,000; grapes $161,113,000 and $149,126,000; cherries $47,997,000 and $36,387,.

The crop values by states this year and last, respectively, included:

Pennsylvania $289,311,000 and $331,746,000; Ohio $520,945,000 and $603,185,000; Indiana $584,128,000 and $683,394,000; Michigan $408,309,000 and $437,35; West Virginia $51,719,000 and $58,634,000; Kentucky $378,745,000 and $430,556,000.

House Tax-Writing Chieftain Dies at 64

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jere Cooper (D-Tenn), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, died Wednesday after suffering an attack of coronary thrombosis. He was 64.

Washington, 67 | John Adams, 90 | Jefferson, 83 | Madison, 85 | Monroe, 73 | John Quincy Adams, 80

MODERN-DAY PRESIDENTS DIE YOUNGER—Average age of the first six U. S. Presidents (top row) at death was 79 years, 8 months. Average age of the last six (bottom row) to die was 63 years, 2 months. There have been vast advances in medical care since those early days, too, so exigencies of the modern-day presidency must be every bit as telling as reported. (International)

No U. S. Cash In Sight for Missile Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials said today no money for arming West Europe with intermediate range rockets is budgeted in the $3,940,000,000 foreign aid bill being readied for Congress.

They said several hundred million dollars may have to be added to the request to pay for the 1,500,-mile-range Jupiter and Thor missiles if the European nations decide they want them.

The 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance summit conference at Paris Wednesday accepted unanimously the principle that NATO as a whole should have the weapons.

Meanwhile, diplomats dealing with the foreign aid program expressed some confusion over President Eisenhower's reference to the Export - Import Bank in his opening speech before NATO.

Eisenhower, saying the United States was stepping up its economic aid, listed some proposals in the works. Among other things, he said: "We will ask the Congress to increase the lending authority of the Export-Import Bank by an additional $2 billion."

The diplomats here said the puzzling thing about this Eisenhower reference was its inclusion with some foreign aid proposals, such as a request for a $625 million development loan fund.

They said the Export-Import Bank generally is considered outside the foreign aid program.

Wellston Educator Gets Athletic Post

COLUMBUS (AP) — C. H. Jones, superintendent of Wellston schools, is the new president of the Ohio High School Athletic Assn.'s Board of Control.

He was elected to the post at a board meeting here Wednesday night. He will succeed Ralph T. Webster of Columbus East High School. Webster is completing his three-year term.

Mel Novak of Cambridge was suspended as an official for failure to fulfill his contract, and Mansfield St. Peter was accepted as a new member of the group.

Sputnik To Fall In January, Belief

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The world's first man-made satellite, Sputnik I, is due to fall to earth early in January, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory says.

The Soviet moon was launched Oct. 4. It is a 23-inch sphere.

The final stage rocket that launched Sputnik I plunged to its end Nov. 30, according to Smithsonian Director Fred L. Whipple.

Ohio Penal Industry Glove Makers Providing Surplus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 10-year audit revealed Ohio penal industries had a surplus of 78,864 pairs of white canvas gloves last year, State Auditor James A. Rhodes announced Wednesday. Manufacture has since been halted, he said.

Examiner Norman E. Lust, who made the audit covering 1947 through 1956, reported to Rhodes schedules "showing inventories of finished goods, unfilled orders and surplus stocks indicated a total lack of provision for inventory and production control."

George J. Radway, penal industries superintendent, explained there had been such a demand for the gloves that officials were trying to "look ahead" and the market "fell off."

Maury C. Koblentz, chief of the Division of Correction, in a letter to his superior, Dr. Robert Haines, director of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, said: "Many statements (in the report) are no more than allegations and certainly not in conformity with existing facts."

Also in Lust's report was the announcement of a plan to give shoes made at the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield a final inspection.

Lust said complaints against penal industries-made shoes stated that nails were frequently found protruding inside the shoes. He said he spot-checked a box of women's oxfords and that "upon placing a hand inside a shoe, a nail about one-half inch long was found."

'Excellence' in Education Seen as Ohio's Big Problem

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Commission on Education Beyond the High School Wednesday called for "excellence in all education."

Dr. John C. Baker, president of Ohio University and chairman of the commission, and Clarence E. Ficken, the executive director, said excellence is the No. 1 problem for the state. The opinion was expressed in the third of a series of open letters.

In the first letter, the commission referred to the scope of the commissions program. The second stressed the premises on which the commissions report is to be based, that both educators and the public should urge major efforts be devoted to recommendations for taking care of the rapidly increasing number of students.

Wednesday, Dr. Baker said: "Emphasis on numbers and expansion alone proved to be very temporary, for many of those who met with us or wrote to us stressed not how many students can we rush through college in the next decade, but how well they be educated.

The letter continued: "For some years there has been a growing uneasiness among educational and business leaders and many others that more emphasis should be placed on thoroughness, basic training in fundamentals, higher standards, and recognition of outstanding individual ability.

"We discovered also that few approved of the board dividing lines between elementary, secondary and high education. They believe these areas of education are artifical dividing lines as well as inextricably interwoven and that artifical dividing lines as well as limited communications between them were harmful both to the individual student and to the welfare of our state and nation."

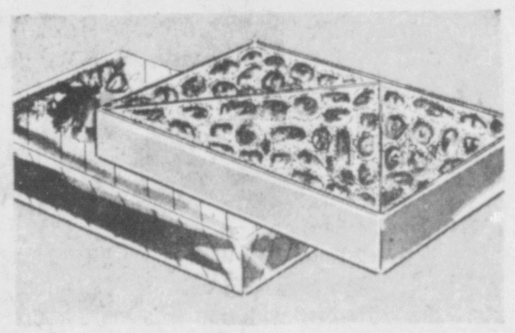

Logan Railroader Dies At Throttle of Engine

COLUMBUS (AP)—Frank W. Helber, 68, of Logan, collapsed and died at the throttle of his Chesapeake & Ohio freight engine as he brought it into Columbus Wednesday. Fireman J. B. Akers took over.

Dr. Robert A. Evans, Franklin County coroner, ruled Helber died of a heart attack.

Police Hanging Out Greetings, not Tickets

The cards read: "We know you are doing Christmas shopping and this violation is an oversight on your part. We shall appreciate your cooperation in the future. Best wishes for a merry Christmas."

1957 Crop Value Less Than 1956's

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crops produced by farmers this year had a value of $17,546,892,000 or about 6.5 per cent less than last year's value of $18,781,124,000, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The agency did not give figures on the value of livestock and livestock products produced this year.

The department said that despite the decline in the value of crops, farm income itself is expected to be slightly larger than last year. The increase largely would reflect a bigger amount of government payments to producers.

The value of crops was based on final production estimates and average prices received during the marketing season.

Corn continued to top all crops with a value of $3,991,111,000 compared with $4,459,465,000 last year. Prices were said to be averaging $1.17 a bushel compared with $1.29 last year.

Hay was second with a value of $2,286,350,000 compared with $2,-c20 czzlbylczzc ra714aes 19 303,616,000 last year. Wheat was third at $1,839,440,000 compared with $1,974,174,00 last year.

Other crops which had a lower value this year than last included flaxseed, rice, cotton, cottonseed, dry beans, dry peas, peanuts, potatoes, tobacco, apples, peaches, pears, apricots, oranges, grapefruit, lemons, limes, pecans, and almonds.

Crops which had a higher value included oats, barley, sorghum grain, soybeans, sugarcane, sugar beets, hops, sweet potatoes, grapes, cherries, plums and broomcorn.

The value of other crops this year and last, respectively, included:

Oats $83,493,000 this year and $800,513,000 last; barley $379,529,000 and $370,752,00; rye $29,187,-

Soybeans $1,04,934,000 and $980,747,000; tobacco $958,052,000 and $1,169,795,000.

Sugar beets $169,169,000 and $155,281,000; apples $219,111,000 and $236,870,000; peaches $130,134,00 and $141,523,000; grapes $161,113,000 and $149,126,000; cherries $47,997,000 and $36,387..

The crop values by states this year and last, respectively, included:

Pennsylvania $289,311,000 and $331,746,000; Ohio $520,945,000 and $603,185,000; Indiana $584,128,000 and $683,394,000; Michigan $408,309,000 and $437,35; West Virginia $51,719,000 and $58,634,000; Kentucky $378,745,000 and $430,556,000.

House Tax-Writing Chieftain Dies at 64

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jere Cooper (D-Tenn), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, died Wednesday after suffering an attack of coronary thrombosis. He was 64.

The party lineup in the House now stands at 230 Democrats and 200 Republicans, with 5 vacant seats, including Cooper's.

MODERN-DAY PRESIDENTS DIE YOUNGER—Average age of the first six U. S. Presidents (top row) at death was 79 years, 8 months. Average age of the last six (bottom row) to die was 63 years, 2 months. There have been vast advances in medical care since those early days, too, so exigencies of the modern-day presidency must be every bit as telling as reported. (International)

No U. S. Cash In Sight for Missile Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials said today no money for arming West Europe with intermediate range rockets is budgeted in the $3,940,000,000 foreign aid bill being readied for Congress.

They said several hundred million dollars may have to be added to the request to pay for the 1,500,-mile-range Jupiter and Thor missiles if the European nations decide they want them.

The 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance summit conference at Paris Wednesday accepted unanimously the principle that NATO as a whole should have the weapons.

Meanwhile, diplomats dealing with the foreign aid program expressed some confusion over President Eisenhower's reference to the Export - Import Bank in his opening speech before NATO.

Eisenhower, saying the United States was stepping up its economic aid, listed some proposals in the works. Among other things, he said: "We will ask the Congress to increase the lending authority of the Export-Import Bank by an additional $2 billion."

The diplomats here said the puzzling thing about this Eisenhower reference was its inclusion with some foreign aid proposals, such as a request for a $625 million development loan fund.

They said the Export-Import Bank generally is considered outside the foreign aid program.

Wellston Educator Gets Athletic Post

COLUMBUS (AP) — C. H. Jones, superintendent of Wellston schools, is the new president of the Ohio High School Athletic Assn.'s Board of Control.

He was elected to the post at a board meeting here Wednesday night. He will succeed Ralph T. Webster of Columbus East High School. Webster is completing his three-year term.

Mel Novak of Cambridge was suspended as an official for failure to fulfill his contract, and Mansfield St. Peter was accepted as a new member of the group.

Sputnik To Fall In January, Belief

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The world's first man-made satellite, Sputnik I, is due to fall to earth early in January, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory says.

The final stage rocket that launched Sputnik I plunged to its end Nov. 30, according to Smithsonian Director Fred L. Whipple.

Ohio Penal Industry Glove Makers Providing Surplus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 10-year audit revealed Ohio penal industries had a surplus of 78,864 pairs of white canvas gloves last year, State Auditor James A. Rhodes announced Wednesday. Manufacture has since been halted, he said.

Examiner Norman E. Lust, who made the audit covering 1947 through 1956, reported to Rhodes schedules "showing inventories of finished goods, unfilled orders and surplus stocks indicated a total lack of provision for inventory and production control."

George J. Radway, penal industries superintendent, explained there had been such a demand for the gloves that officials were trying to "look ahead" and the market "fell off."

Maury C. Koblentz, chief of the Division of Correction, in a letter to his superior, Dr. Robert Haines, director of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, said: "Many statements (in the report) are no more than allegations and certainly not in conformity with existing facts."

Also in Lust's report was the announcement of a plan to give shoes made at the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield a final inspection.

Lust said complaints against penal industries-made shoes stated that nails were frequently found protruding inside the shoes. He said he spot-checked a box of women's oxfords and that "upon placing a hand inside a shoe, a nail about one-half inch long was found."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Commission on Education Beyond the High School Wednesday called for "excellence in all education."

Dr. John C. Baker, president of Ohio University and chairman of the commission, and Clarence E. Ficken, the executive director, said excellence is the No. 1 problem for the state. The opinion was expressed in the third of a series of open letters.

In the first letter, the commission referred to the scope of the commissions program. The second stressed the premises on which the commissions report is to be based, that both educators and the public should urge major efforts be devoted to recommendations for taking care of the rapidly increasing number of students.

Wednesday, Dr. Baker said: "Emphasis on numbers and expansion alone proved to be very temporary, for many of those who met with us or wrote to us stressed not how many students can we rush through college in the next decade, but how well they be educated.

The letter continued: "For some years there has been a growing uneasiness among educational and business leaders and many others that more emphasis should be placed on thoroughness, basic training in fundamentals, higher standards, and recognition of outstanding individual ability.

"We discovered also that few approved of the board dividing lines between elementary, secondary and high education. They believe these areas of education are artifical dividing lines as well as inextricably interwoven and that artifical dividing lines as well as limited communications between them were harmful both to the individual student and to the welfare of our state and nation."

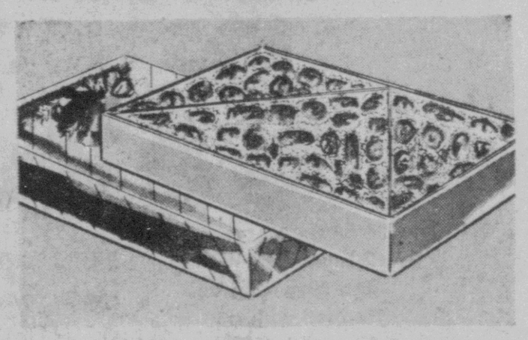

Logan Railroader Dies At Throttle of Engine

COLUMBUS (AP)—Frank W. Helber, 68, of Logan, collapsed and died at the throttle of his Chesapeake & Ohio freight engine as he brought it into Columbus Wednesday. Fireman J. B. Akers took over.

Fire Kills 2 Children

JACKSON (AP)—John and Dianna Mae Alexander, both 9, children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Alexander, were burned to death early Wednesday when a fire destroyed their Limerick home.

REFRESHING ENTERTAINMENT--The twin bill booked to open Sunday at the Fayette Theater provides a switch from the popular rock 'n' roll, crime and thrill movies. Half of the program is, "God Is My Partner" (scene above), a timely Christmas story of a small town surgeon who uses his money for good, starring Walter Brennan. The other half is "Deersiayer," the film version of James Fenimore Cooper's American epic of the struggles between the pioneers and Indians. Lex Barker is in the starring role.

Theologian Claims Thinking Is Wrong

CINCINNATI (AP)—A noted Protestant theologian, Dr. Ralph W. Sockman of New York City, said here recently that much current religion tends to treat God as a servant.

"Too much popular religion treats God as just an aid in peace of mind and financial prosperity," Dr. Sockman said. "We must recognize God as our sovereign and not merely as our servant."

Lonely Hearts Pour In Mail For Santa

Since then, says city recreation director Nick Barack, about 30 letters have been deposited. Sixteen were from youngsters asking Santa for toys, and 14 from men in four states, trying to woo the unidentified widow.

Barack said he doesn't know why there are so few letters from youngsters, but he said the men who replied to the widow have urged her to call them long distance collect, mentioned their salaries, and even outlined their qualifications for marriage.

Shuddering at the thought that the special service for children may turn into a "matrimonial bureau," Barack reported that a woman who said she has been "deserted for 22 years" wrote, implying that if there is an eligible bachelor left after the widow is accomodated, she would like one, too.

Anti-Pinball Law Upheld by Court

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday upheld Columbus anti-pinball ordinances and gave other Ohio cities a weapon against coin - operated machines.

Judge Thomas J. Herbert of Cleveland cast the only dissenting vote in the 6-1 decision to uphold the ordinances, described as a model for municipalities seeking to ban devices used for gambling.

The ordinances of 1953 and 1954 ban ownership and exhibition of games which encourage gambling, register odds or scores or may be converted into gambling devices.

Two pinball operators, who sought to knock out the ordinances in test cases, claimed the city lacked power to ban devices used for amusement only.

Baby Is Strangled By Long Key Chain

TOLEDO (AP) — One-year - old Frank Gatwood of Sylvania was strangled to death Wednesday by a long key chain hanging over the corner of his crib.

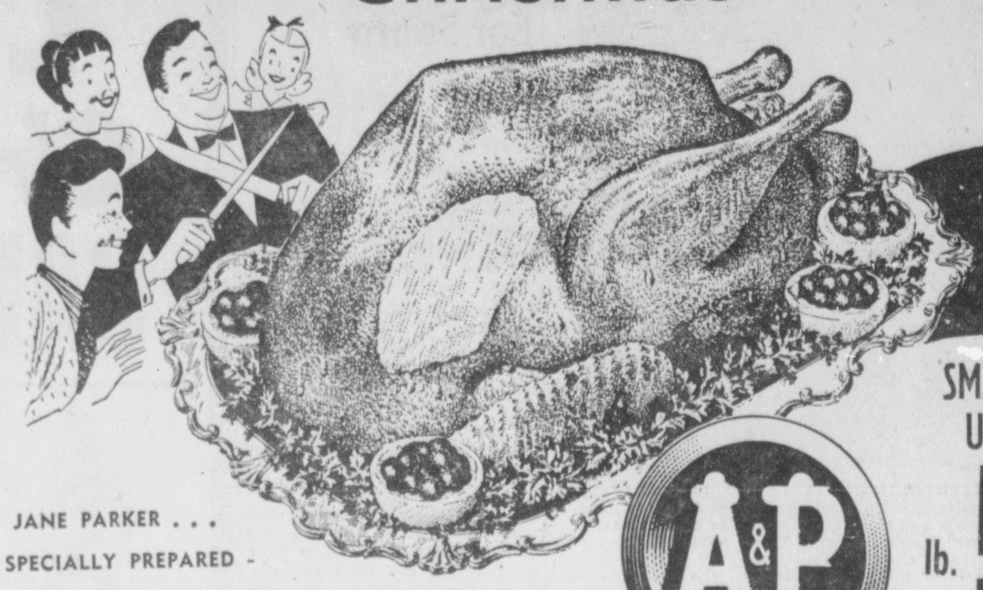

Firemen said one end of the chain became entangled around the child's neck while the other end remained fast to the corner of the crib. Coroner Paul Hohly ruled the death accidental.

Toledo Gambler Joins Las Vegas Venture

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Ben Aronoff, longtime Toledo, Ohio, gambler, was given State Gaming Board approval Wednesday for a half interest in the gambling at the El Ranco Vegan Hotel in Las Vegas. He is putting up $100,000 to become a partner of veteran gambler Beldon Katleman.

The ancients named the planet Mars after the god of war because it is fiery red. Mars' diameter is about half that of the earth.

The first 15 names drawn are for the grand jury for the January term of court, with the 16th for an additional, or alternate juror. They are to appear at 9 a. m. on Jan 6.

The names were drawn by Tom Mark of the jury commission Judge Case, Sheriff Orland Hays and Mrs. Cline Deere, deputy clerk of courts from those placed in the jury wheel from the poll books.

Anti-Pinball Law Upheld by Court

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday upheld Columbus anti-pinball ordinances and gave other Ohio cities a weapon against coin - operated machines.

Judge Thomas J. Herbert of Cleveland cast the only dissenting vote in the 6-1 decision to uphold the ordinances, described as a model for municipalities seeking to ban devices used for gambling.

The ordinances of 1953 and 1954 ban ownership and exhibition of games which encourage gambling, register odds or scores or may be converted into gambling devices.

Two pinball operators, who sought to knock out the ordinances in test cases, claimed the city lacked power to ban devices used for amusement only.

Baby Is Strangled By Long Key Chain

TOLEDO (AP) — One-year - old Frank Gatwood of Sylvania was strangled to death Wednesday by a long key chain hanging over the corner of his crib.

Firemen said one end of the chain became entangled around the child's neck while the other end remained fast to the corner of the crib. Coroner Paul Hohly ruled the death accidental.

Toledo Gambler Joins Las Vegas Venture

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Ben Aronoff, longtime Toledo, Ohio, gambler, was given State Gaming Board approval Wednesday for a half interest in the gambling at the El Ranco Vegan Hotel in Las Vegas. He is putting up $100,000 to become a partner of veteran gambler Beldon Katleman.

The ancients named the planet Mars after the god of war because it is fiery red. Mars' diameter is about half that of the earth.

Miami Looks Sharp in Mid-Am Play

Redskins Overwhelm Marshall, May Keep Conference Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami, defending Mid-American Conference basketball champion, looks like it is on its way to retaining the crown Wednesday night the Redskins outclassed perennially tough Marshall 106-97 in Huntington, W. Va.

John Powell, a six-foot senior from Franklin, wound up with 43 points. He hit 10 of his first 11 shots from the floor as he dribbled through and around Marshall defenders.

It was Miami's second conference win and their fifth in seven starts this season. The game was Marshall's first in the conference this year.

In another Mid-Am contest, Toledo kept its record perfect in defeating Western Michigan 66-62 in Kalamazoo.

It was the Rockets' fourth victory and the conference opener for both teams.

Wittenberg took over the lead in the Ohio Conference with a 56-43 victory over winless Otterbein in Westerville. The Lutherans were tied with Oberlin for the league lead with a 2-0 record prior to Wednesday night's game.

The visitors had to rely on free throws to record the win when their field goal attack went cold. The Lutherans hit only 19 of 70 shots from the floor but managed 18 of 26 free throws.

Ex-Lockbourne (Ohio) Air Force Base star Bob Whaley copped scoring honors for Akron with 25 points.

Three other Ohio teams went out of the state for their games and two were victorious.

In the other game, Baldwin-Wallace suffered its second defeat in as many nights in the Quantico Marine Christmas Invitational Tournament. This time it was at the hands of Westchester State of Pennsylvania 61-53. The Yellow Jackets were beaten Tuesday night by the host Marine team 91-83.

Experts Prove Casual Hunter Can Be Out-Smarted by Game

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

When the mighty hunter returns from the field, heavy of heart and light of game bag—and there's a direct relationship between the two—he is likely to give voice, as soon as there's an audience, to a lament with two anguished stanzas.

The first calls attention to what must be considered obvious: If the mighty hunter didn't shoot any game, then obviously it must be because there ain't any game.

The second is a logical enough development from that springboard: If there ain't any game, it's the fault of the game commission—who else? — and something ought to be done about it.

Any general observations, particularly by game management, that the hunter's game bag might possibly be empty because he isn't quite as good at hunting as the game is at being hunted as predictable consequences: It doesn't shake the hunter's convictions about the first part of his thesis and it confirms him in the second.

Now, however, Michigan wildlife experts have come up with the results of what many a hunter might consider a dirty trick: They didn't make any snide insinuations—they just went out and proved what they really knew all along. And that is: A man who is a hunter only on a part-time basis can well expect to be outsmarted frequently by a deer who works at being a deer all the time.

The Michigan experts didn't even embarrass anybody, except possibly their fellow experts, in the process. They put a fence 11 feet high around 647 acres of hardwood forest and conifer swamp in Cusino wildlife experiment station in the state's upper peninsula then put in 39 deer.

What happened was reported to the Midwest Wildlife Conference by R. C. Van Eteen, one of the technicians involved.

In 1954, six veteran hunters entered the enclosure, knowing ahead of time that there were 7 bucks, 14 does and 18 fawns inside the fence.

But it took them four days—15½ man-days of hunting—before they even saw their first buck. It took the six men four days to kill two bucks.

On the 18 days the area was hunted in four years, an average of seven hunters spent an average of five hours within the enclosure. The herd varied from 26 to 39 animals, and averaged 34 at the start of each annual hunt.

Here's what happened: On "buck-only" hunts, hunters saw only 17 per cent of the deer known to be present, and only 3 per cent of the bucks. Fourteen hours were required to shoot any deer, and 51 hours to shoot a buck.

"Maybe," said Van Etten, after delivering the statistics, "it's about time we revamp our ideas on the number of deer in the woods."

Bucks, Oregon Poised for Pasadena Trip

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Rose Bowl-bound Ohio State Buckeyes will leave for the west coast early Saturday. Coach Woody Hayes said he expects to put his charges through a workout after arriving in Pasadena later that day.

The Bucks went through their last practice here Wednesday in preparation for their invasion of the Rose Bowl Jan. 1 against Oregon. It was the seventh of 16 allowed practices for the bowl.

The team was not able to drill Wednesday because of final examinations. No practice is scheduled for Friday, another heavy examination day.

Coach Len Casanova plans a loosening up drill for Saturday morning. That afternoon the team will leave for Los Angeles. Daily practices will be conducted on the University of Southern California practice field.

Dodgers May Call Rose Bowl 'Home'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—All indications point to the Los Angeles Dodgers opening their 1958 National League baseball season in the 100,000 seat Rose Bowl in nearby Pasadena.

O'Malley huddled with Pasadena City Manager Don McMillan and then announced:

"The people of Pasadena have invited us and I feel very sure we can arrive at an intelligent agreement to play in the Rose Bowl."

High School Pupil Bags Deer Between Classes

EMPORIUM, Pa. (AP) — A high school pupil bagged a deer between classes when, glancing out a school window, teacher Mrs. Sidney Kennedy spotted the doe in a nearby field, learned Michael Grimone had a hunting license and let him run home for his rifle. Grimone shot the doe and returned to classes.

WHS Lions Will Be Idle

Two League Games Set for Friday Night

All four of the high school cage teams in Fayette County will be playing league games Friday night, but the lead in the race is not likely to be changed.

Bloomingburg's Bulldogs, who took over the top spot with a 45 to 43 victory over Jeffersonville's Tigers last Friday, will meet the Warriors from Madison Mills on the Bloomingburg floor, while the Tigers are at Good Hope for a game with the Mad Anthonys.

Coach Everett Rudolph's Bulldogs, who have won both of their league games and have an overall record of six wins and three losses, appear to be a cinch to knock of the Warriors, who have lost both of their league games (to Jeff and Good Hope) and have won only two of their eight games to date.

While the Warriors do not have an impressive won and lost record, the small squad coached by Tolman Mills has come through with some good games.

* * *

SECOND PLACE in the league is at stake in the game at Good Hope. Although the Tigers have won three more games than the Mad Anthonys this season to set up an overall record of five won and three lost, each team has won one and lost one in league play.

The Mad Anthonys, who have looked very good in some of their games, have lost seven while winning two. At times the boys coached by Roger Hoffman have loosed an offense that wore out the scorekeeper's pencils.

By contrast, the Tigers, coached by Robert Hildreth, have been consistent, winning or losing most of their games by narrow margins. They also have shown determination and the ability to come from behind in tough going.

* * *

WHILE THE four Fayette County teams are involved in a family squabble, New Holland's Bulldogs, who live just over the county line will be playing a Pickaway County League game at Pickaway Friday night.

The Bulldogs, coached by Robert Melick, have lost only one game in seven to date and have been tabbed as one of the contenders for the Pickaway County League crown. They will go into Friday's game after a 10-day rest; their last game was Dec. 10.

The Lion cagers of Washington C. H. High School, still smarting from the 56-54 upset handed them last Tuesday by the Indians, will not be playing until Dec. 27, when they go to Waverly for the holiday tournament. The Lions will meet the New Boston basketeers in their first game of the tourney.

Lions-49ers Game Labeled As Tossup

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"You can throw out the results of those first two games. They don't mean anything now."

Workouts that started Wednesday at League Park were of a general nature, with emphasis on conditioning. The Eastern Division champions can't start tailoring their offense until they know who the offense will be used against, the Lions or the 49ers.

Chamberlain Leading College Cage Scorers

NEW YORK (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain, the 7-foot junior from Kansas, started out fast again this season and leads the nation's major college basketball scorers with an average of 32 points per game for the first five contests.

Individual scoring figures through games of Dec. 12 showed that Chamberlain had tallied 61 field goals and 38 free throws for a total of 160 points.

Hornsby Appointed Cubs Batting Coach

Hornsby, who reigned seven years as National League batting champion and had a lifetime average of .358, resigned as a youth program director for Mayor Richard Daley to accept the Cub job.

Piper Only Candidate For OU Coaching Job

Paul Hoerneman of Heidelberg College and Bill Hess, Ohio State University tackle coach, have withdrawn, the screening committee said. Ohio University is seeking a successor to Carroll Widdoes, who resigned.

Devine Signs Contract As Coach at Missouri

Devine, 33, was appointed Wednesday to succeed Frank Broyles, who resigned to become head coach at the University of Arkansas. His salary was not disclosed, but it is believed to be about $11,000 a year.

Illinois Shows New Signs Of Becoming Cage Power

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Is this the season Illinois crashes back into the big time of college basketball? Or is that just another almost-but-not-quite bunch of Illini Coach Harry Combes has going for him?

Combes, in his 10 years at Illinois, has only twice lost more than five games in one season—both 1-8 years, in 1950 and 1956.

Still, the Illini have made the nation's top 10 in the final Associated Press rankings only once since their runnerup finish in 1952 while Indiana and Iowa dominated Big Ten Conference play.

Now the as-yet unranked Illini are 5-0, pulling away in the last minutes Wednesday night for an 85-82 victory over well-regarded Rice of the Southwest Conference.

Only two other ranked clubs were in action Wednesday night. Maryland (No. 6) made it 5-0 with an 88-58 breezer over Navy, but Wichita tumbled UCLA (No. 13) from the unbeatens 83-68 with a second half fast break.

Pompey, Hinnant Await Next Bouts

CHICAGO (AP)—Yolande Pompey of Trinidad or Clarence Hinnant of Miami, who fought a bruising 10-round light heavyweight draw at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night, is due for a good bout in the near future.

Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, said today that if Durelle, a top-ranked contender for Archie Moore's light heavy crown, beats Anthony he may be matched with Pompey in Montreal in February or March.

If Anthony defeats Durelle, the IBC contemplates an Anthony-Hinnant bout in Miami, also in February or March.

Lakers Win As Pistons Lose Coach

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Minneapolis Lakers won a game and the Detroit Pistons lost a coach in the National Basketball Assn. Wednesday — Surprising developments in both cases.

The Lakers, able to win only five of 2 games, whipped the stumbling Philadelphia Warriors 108-102 for No. 6 a few hours after Charley Eckman, who guided the Pistons to two division titles in three years at Fort Wayne before the move to Detroit, resigned under pressure.

Eckman, who turned to coaching after several years as an NBA referee, will continue to draw his salary of $12,500 annually until June of 1959.

Minneapolis, trying to find its way out of the Western Division cellar, dropped 12 free throws in the last four minutes to settle the only game on the Wednesday program. Vern Mikkelsen, with 24 points, and Bobby Leonard, with 20, were the top scorers for the Lakers. Neil Johnston, still playing with a brace protecting his broken jaw, took game honors with 40 for Philadelphia, which ranks last in the Eastern Division with a 10-1 record.

Tar Heels Prep For Cage Tourney

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Top-ranked North Carolina means business in the power-packed University of Kentucky invitational basketball tournament Friday and Saturday.

Facing the challenge of three other members of the nation's top 10, the Tar Heels flew in Wednesday night and immediately held a workout.

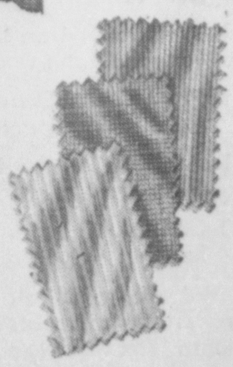

Minnesota, another unbeaten power, also worked out Wednesday night.

Redskins Overwhelm Marshall, May Keep Conference Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami, defending Mid-American Conference basketball champion, looks like it i- on its way to retaining the crown Wednesday night the Redskins outclassed perennially tough Marshall 106-97 in Huntington, W. Va.

John Powell, a six-foot senior from Franklin, wound up with 43 points. He hit 10 of his first 11 shots from the floor as he dribbled through and around Marshall defenders.

It was Miami's second conference win and their fifth in seven starts this season. The game was Marshall's first in the conference this year.

In another Mid-Am contest, Toledo kept its record perfect in defeating Western Michigan 66-62 in Kalamazoo.

It was the Rockets' fourth victory and the conference opener for both teams.

Wittenberg took over the lead in the Ohio Conference with a 56-43 victory over winless Otterbein in Westerville. The Lutherans were tied with Oberlin for the league lead with a 2-0 record prior to Wednesday night's game.

The visitors had to rely on free throws to record the win when their field goal attack went cold. The Lutherans hit only 19 of 70 shots from the floor but managed 18 of 26 free throws.

Youngstown posted its sixth victory of the year and the 21st consecutive win at home. The Penguins downed Akron 83-70.

Three other Ohio teams went out of the state for their games and two were victorious.

In the other game, Baldwin-Wallace suffered its second defeat in as many nights in the Quantico Marine Christmas Invitational Tournament. This time it was at the hands of Westchester State of Pennsylvania 61-53. The Yellow Jackets were beaten Tuesday night by the host Marine team 91-83.

Experts Prove Casual Hunter Can Be Out-Smarted by Game

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

When the mighty hunter returns from the field, heavy of heart and light of game bag—and there's a direct relationship between the two—he is likely to give voice, as soon as there's an audience, to a lament with two anguished stanzas.

The first calls attention to what must be considered obvious: If the mighty hunter didn't shoot any game, then obviously it must be because there ain't any game.

The second is a logical enough development from that springboard: If there ain't any game, it's the fault of the game commission—who else? — and something ought to be done about it.

Any general observations, particularly by game management, that the hunter's game bag might possibly be empty because he isn't quite as good at hunting as the game is at being hunted as predictable consequences: It doesn't shake the hunter's convictions about the first part of his thesis and it confirms him in the second.

Now, however, Michigan wildlife experts have come up with the results of what many a hunter might consider a dirty trick: They didn't make any snide insinuations—they just went out and proved what they really knew all along. And that is: A man who is a hunter only on a part-time basis can well expect to be outsmarted frequently by a deer who works at being a deer all the time.

The Michigan experts didn't even embarrass anybody, except possibly their fellow experts, in the process. They put a fence 11 feet high around 647 acres of hardwood forest and conifer swamp in Cusino wildlife experiment station in the state's upper peninsula then put in 39 deer.

What happened was reported to the Midwest Wildlife Conference by R. C. Van Eteen, one of the technicians involved.

In 1954, six veteran hunters entered the enclosure, knowing ahead of time that there were 7 bucks, 14 does and 18 fawns inside the fence.

But it took them four days—15½ man-days of hunting—before they even saw their first buck. It took the six men four days to kill two bucks.

On the 18 days the area was hunted in four years, an average of seven hunters spent an average of five hours within the enclosure. The herd varied from 26 to 39 animals, and averaged 34 at the start of each annual hunt.

Here's what happened: On "buck-only" hunts, hunters saw only 17 per cent of the deer known to be present, and only 3 per cent of the bucks. Fourteen hours were required to shoot any deer, and 51 hours to shoot a buck.

"Maybe," said Van Etten, after delivering the statistics, "it's about time we revamp our ideas on the number of deer in the woods."

Bucks, Oregon Poised for Pasadena Trip

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Rose Bowl-bound Ohio State Buckeyes will leave for the west coast early Saturday. Coach Woody Hayes said he expects to put his charges through a workout after arriving in Pasadena later that day.

The Bucks went through their last practice here Wednesday in preparation for their invasion of the Rose Bowl Jan. 1 against Oregon. It was the seventh of 16 allowed practices for the bowl.

Hayes had 39 of his 46-man team working out in Wednesday's two-hour session. Don Clark, OSU's junior halfback who was injured in the Purdue game, still is confined to the training room for treatment of an injured groin muscle.

The Oregon team conducts its last full-scale workout in Eugene, Ore., today before its departure for California and the game with Ohio State.

The team was not able to drill Wednesday because of final examinations. No practice is scheduled for Friday, another heavy examination day.

Coach Len Casanova plans a loosening up drill for Saturday morning. That afternoon the team will leave for Los Angeles. Daily practices will be conducted on the University of Southern California practice field.

Dodgers May Call Rose Bowl 'Home'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—All indications point to the Los Angeles Dodgers opening their 1958 National League baseball season in the 100,000 seat Rose Bowl in nearby Pasadena.

O'Malley huddled with Pasadena City Manager Don McMillan and then announced:

"The people of Pasadena have invited us and I feel very sure we can arrive at an intelligent agreement to play in the Rose Bowl."

High School Pupil Bags Deer Between Classes

EMPORIUM, Pa. (AP) — A high school pupil bagged a deer between classes when, glancing out a school window, teacher Mrs. Sidney Kennedy spotted the doe in a nearby field, learned Michael Grimone had a hunting license and let him run home for his rifle. Grimone shot the doe and returned to classes.

WHS Lions Will Be Idle

Two League Games Set for Friday Night

All four of the high school cage teams in Fayette County will be playing league games Friday night, but the lead in the race is not likely to be changed.

Bloomingburg's Bulldogs, who took over the top spot with a 45 to 43 victory over Jeffersonville's Tigers last Friday, will meet the Warriors from Madison Mills on the Bloomingburg floor, while the Tigers are at Good Hope for a game with the Mad Anthonys.

Coach Everett Rudolph's Bulldogs, who have won both of their league games and have an overall record of six wins and three losses, appear to be a cinch to knock of the Warriors, who have lost both of their league games (to Jeff and Good Hope) and have won only two of their eight games to date.

While the Warriors do not have an impressive won and lost record, the small squad coached by Tolman Mills has come through with some good games.

* * *

SECOND PLACE in the league is at stake in the game at Good Hope. Although the Tigers have won three more games than the Mad Anthonys this season to set up an overall record of five won and three lost, each team has won one and lost one in league play.

The Mad Anthonys, who have looked very good in some of their games, have lost seven while winning two. At times the boys coached by Roger Hoffman have loosed an offense that wore out the scorekeeper's pencils.

By contrast, the Tigers, coached by Robert Hildreth, have been consistent, winning or losing most of their games by narrow margins. They also have shown determination and the ability to come from behind in tough going.

* * *

WHILE THE four Fayette County teams are involved in a family squabble, New Holland's Bulldogs, who live just over the county line will be playing a Pickaway County League game at Pickaway Friday night.

The Bulldogs, coached by Robert Melick, have lost only one game in seven to date and have been tabbed as one of the contenders for the Pickaway County League crown. They will go into Friday's game after a 10-day rest; their last game was Dec. 10.

The Lion cagers of Washington C. H. High School, still smarting from the 56-54 upset handed them last Tuesday by the Indians, will not be playing until Dec. 27, when they go to Waverly for the holiday tournament. The Lions will meet the New Boston basketeers in their first game of the tourney.

Lions-49ers Game Labeled As Tossup

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"You can throw out the results of those first two games. They don't mean anything now."

Meanwhile, the Cleveland Browns are marking time until they see who their opponent will be in the championship game.

Workouts that started Wednesday at League Park were of a general nature, with emphasis on conditioning. The Eastern Division champions can't start tailoring their offense until they know who the offense will be used against, the Lions or the 49ers.

Chamberlain Leading College Cage Scorers

NEW YORK (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain, the 7-foot junior from Kansas, started out fast again this season and leads the nation's major college basketball scorers with an average of 32 points per game for the first five contests.

Individual scoring figures through games of Dec. 12 showed that Chamberlain had tallied 61 field goals and 38 free throws for a total of 160 points.

Hornsby Appointed Cubs Batting Coach

Hornsby, who reigned seven years as National League batting champion and had a lifetime average of .358, resigned as a youth program director for Mayor Richard Daley to accept the Cub job.

Piper Only Candidate For OU Coaching Job

Paul Hoerneman of Heidelberg College and Bill Hess, Ohio State University tackle coach, have withdrawn, the screening committee said. Ohio University is seeking a successor to Carroll Widdoes, who resigned.

Bus Route Abandoned

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Utilities Commission has granted permission to the Greyhound Corp. to abandon its bus route from Mansfield via U. S. 30 north through Crestline, Bucyrus, Upper Sandusky, Williamstown, Beaverdam and Cairo to the junction with Ohio 115 in Allen County.

Farm Leaders Meeting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Is this the season Illinois crashes back into the big time of college basketball? Or is that just another almost-but-not-quite bunch of Illini Coach Harry Combes has going for him?

Combes, in his 10 years at Illinois, has only twice lost more than five games in one season—both 1-8 years, in 1950 and 1956.

Still, the Illini have made the nation's top 10 in the final Associated Press rankings only once since their runnerup finish in 1952 while Indiana and Iowa dominated Big Ten Conference play.

Now the as-yet unranked Illini are 5-0, pulling away in the last minutes Wednesday night for an 85-82 victory over well-regarded Rice of the Southwest Conference.

Only two other ranked clubs were in action Wednesday night. Maryland (No. 6) made it 5-0 with an 88-58 breezer over Navy, but Wichita tumbled UCLA (No. 13) from the unbeatens 83-68 with a second half fast break.

Missouri took an 82-61 victory over Texas. Vanderbilt routed The Citadel 90-61. Oklahoma City whipped Wyoming 75-59 after trailing by three at the half.

Pompey, Hinnant Await Next Bouts

CHICAGO (AP)—Yolande Pompey of Trinidad or Clarence Hinnant of Miami, who fought a bruising 10-round light heavyweight draw at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night, is due for a good bout in the near future.

Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, said today that if Durelle, a top - ranked contender for Archie Moore's light heavy crown, beats Anthony he may be matched with Pompey in Montreal in February or March.

If Anthony defeats Durelle, the IBC contemplates an Anthony-Hinnant bout in Miami, also in February or March.

Lakers Win As Pistons Lose Coach

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Minneapolis Lakers won a game and the Detroit Pistons lost a coach in the National Basketball Assn. Wednesday — Surprising developments in both cases.

The Lakers, able to win only five of 2 games, whipped the stumbling Philadelphia Warriors 108-102 for No. 6 a few hours after Charley Eckman, who guided the Pistons to two division titles in three years at Fort Wayne before the move to Detroit, resigned under pressure.

Eckman, who turned to coaching after several years as an NBA referee, will continue to draw his salary of $12,500 annually until June of 1959.

Minneapolis, trying to find its way out of the Western Division cellar, dropped 12 free throws in the last four minutes to settle the only game on the Wednesday program. Vern Mikkelsen, with 24 points, and Bobby Leonard, with 20, were the top scorers for the Lakers. Neil Johnston, still playing with a brace protecting his broken jaw, took game honors with 40 for Philadelphia, which ranks last in the Eastern Division with a 10-1 record.

Tar Heels Prep For Cage Tourney

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Top-ranked North Carolina means business in the power-packed University of Kentucky invitational basketball tournament Friday and Saturday.

Facing the challenge of three other members of the nation's top 10, the Tar Heels flew in Wednesday night and immediately held a workout.

Minnesota, another unbeaten power, also worked out Wednesday night.

Justice Burton Urges World Court System

CINCINNATI (AP) — An international court system based on the same structure as U.S. Courts would offer great hope for bringing peace to the world, Associate Justice Harold H. Burton of the U. S. Supreme Court believes.

"An effective world court would ease international tension by deciding issues the same way our Supreme Court does," the Clevelander declared.

Realtors Told About Financing

Tom Mark Closes Year as President

Members of the Tri - County Real Estate Board were given an explanation of the functions of the Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program following the monthly dinner meeting at the Skyscraper Restaurant in Hillsboro Wednesday night.

Rudolph S. Zadnik, of Cleveland executive - secretary of the organization, told the realtors that the Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program was designed to help individuals get home financing through private lending institutions when they are unable to secure it through regular channels. He emphasized that the organization does not provide the financing itself; rather, that it merely brings the individuals and lending institutions together. Headquarters of the organization are in Cleveland.

* * *

THIS WAS the last meeting for Tom Mark, Washington C. H. realtor, as president of the tri - county organization. He will be succeeded next year by Gordon Tice of Wilmington.

Mark reviewed the organization's accomplishments of the past year, pointing out that the meetings all had been marked by good programs and good attendance. He noted that during the year five new realtor members and two new salesmen members had been taken into the organization and that there had been a 100 per cent representation at the state convention in Toledo, for which all eight of its delegate and alternates registered.

Another new member, Don E. Wood, was taken into the organization at Wednesday night meeting. He is a salesman with the B. F. Norris real estate agency in Washington C. H.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 15 in Leesburg.

From Washington C. H. at the Wednesday night meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Loren P. Brackney, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mustine, B. F. Norris, Horatio Wilson and Mark.

'Santa Claus' Indiana Shares Its Distinction

SANTA CLAUS, Calif. (AP) — For a long time Indiana had a monopoly on the title "Santa Claus" as the name of a town.

In fact Congress said that no other postoffice in the United States could use the name.

But in Southern California is this coastal hamlet with the name Santa Claus. How did they get away with it?

Well, something of a technicality was used. More than 100 years ago the town in Indiana was named Santa Claus to give children a thrill when they got letters with that postmark at Christmastime. Congress decided the Indiana town was entitled to exclusive use of the name for a postoffice.

But here the village is not classified as a full-fledged postoffice. The sign above the office reads: underneath that "Santa Claus "United States Postoffice" and underneath that "Santa Claus Rural Station." And the stamp cancellation reads: "Carpinteria, Calif., Santa Claus Rural Station."

Christmas Spirit At BPW Meeting

Business Gives Way To Holiday Program

The Christmas spirit overshadowed all else at Tuesday night's dinner meeting of the Washington C. H. Business and Professional Women's Club at the Country Club.

The customary business meeting was limited to a brief report on the part the club had taken in the Christmas observance at Mt. Logan Sanatorium, Chillicothe. Miss Helen Slavens, committee chairman, told the club that 92 gaily wrapped gifts had been taken to the patients there and that contributions amounting to $50 in cash had been used to buy candy and cigarettes for them, too.

Mrs. Marian Gage entertained throughout the dinner with electric organ music and the BPW choir, directed by Mrs. Dorothy Hummell, a former resident of Washington C. H. who now lives in Columbus, sang "Virgin Slumber Song" and "O, Holy Night." Members of the choir are Mrs. Jerry Dray, Mrs. Mindonna Kimmey, Mrs. George Stitt, Mrs. George O'Briant, Miss Jean Everhart and Mrs. Mary Gillespie. The choir also sang the descant for "Adeste Fidelestes."

* *

HAL SUMMERS, who took the role of Santa Claus for the gift exchange which followed the program sang "O, Little Town of Behlehem" and "What Child Is This?"

Two little girls, Mary Jo Hyer and Nancy Jo West, also entertained the group with a dance number.

Two guests at the meeting were Mrs. Evelyn West and Mrs. Eldon Long of Jeffersonville.

The program was arranged by the music committee headed by Mrs. George Stitt. Other members of the committee were Mrs. Ralph Yerian, Mrs. Walter Hays, Mrs. Manetta Ramsay, Mrs. Frank Hyer, Mrs. Jerry Dray, Miss Jean Everhart, Mrs. Mary Gillespie and Mrs. Dorothy Hummell.

1927 Christmas Card Still Making Rounds

LOS ANGELES (AP) — That battered Christmas card the Reina brothers have been exchanging since 1927 makes another trip across town this holiday season. John Reina originally bought the card and sent it to his brother Jim who sent it back the next Christmas.

Ike Pleased By Results of NATO Parley

PARIS (AP)—President Eisenhower today was credited with a personal triumph in winning unanimous NATO support for the principle of establishing European missile bases and nuclear warhead stockpiles.

The President was reported to be unquestionably pleased by the outcome of a situation which could have turned out disastrously for American prestige.

Eisenhower arranged to return to Washington on his plane, the Columbine III, late today. He was due in the U. S. capital about 6:30 a. m. Friday.

The President and Secretary of State Dulles, who is going home by way of Spain, are scheduled to make a 30-minute radio-TV report to the American people on the conference Monday night. All U. S. networks will carry it.

Eisenhower's aides described him as happy about the outcome of the conference, but no one in the American delegation was claiming an all-out U. S. victory.

Only three nations (Britain, Turkey and the Netherlands) have agreed to accept missiles.

Failure to win a NATO agreement to take American missiles could have had a devastating impact at a time when the United States is seeking to revitalize the Atlantic Alliance and bolster the free world's defenses against Soviet space advances.

Courts

SUIT FOR $4,965 FILED

M. C. Ortman, 227 N. Main St., has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Burton E. Park and Irene A. Park of Jeffersonville for $4,965.36, with 6 per cent interest from Dec. 4, 1957, he claims is due him on a promissory note for $4,600 executed May 1, 1953. The note is secured, the petition states, by a mortgage on a lot in Jeffersonville. The suit claims the monthly payments on the note are in default more than 30 days.

More than 40 thousand aliens each month try to enter the United States illegally from Mexico and Canada and are turned back by the border patrol.

Christmas Party Held by Grange

Potluck Supper Precedes Business

Master Glen Whittington conducted the business meeting which was preceded by a potluck dinner. Whittington thanked all those who had contributed blood to the Red Cross blood bank and announced that the mobile X-ray unit will visit Washington C. H. Jan. 6 to 16 under sponsorship of the Fayette County Tuberculosis and Health Assn. He urged all Granger to take advantage of the services of the services offered by the mobile unit.

The Grange charter was draped in memory of two late members, Miss Clara B. Rowland and Clyde Garringer.

Four donations were approved by the members. The PTO was grant $10 to help with needy families this Christmas; $5 was turned over to the Grange Youth Fund and $5 for a TB bond.

A demit was granted Mr. and Mrs. Stephan Tway.

Mrs. Harry Rains was named chairman of the community service contest and it was voted to cooperate with Pomono Grange in observing Rural Life Sunday next spring.

Mrs. John Rowland began the evening's entertainment by reading an article on the observance of the 90th birthday of the Grange. She also read a poem "Just for Christmas."

Neil Rowland sang "God Bless Thee, Merry Gentlemen."

Mrs. William Dunn and Mrs. Everett Rife each gave a Christmas reading and the meeting was closed with a prayer by Conrad Hilton.

Sanatorium Patients Get Christmas Gifts

Two Fayette County organizations have made it a part of their Yuletide activities to see that every Fayette County tubercular patient in a hospital is remembered with gifts and treats this year.

The Fayette County TB and Health Assn. next Sunday will send a package containing pajamas and shaving materials to two men patients at Mt. Logan Sanatorium, Chillicothe. A special gift of a radio with car phones will be sent for a patient who has difficulty with hearing. Another patient at the Ohio State Tubercular Hospital at Columbus will be remembered with gifts as will still another at the Veterans Hospital at Dayton.

The Business and Professional Women's club here last Sunday, sent 92 special "treats" along with gift packages for every patient at the Mt. Logan Sanatorium. The committee on public offairs for this organization made th trip to Chillicothe to personally present the Christmas remembrances. Some of these patients have no families or other relatives and these, in many cases, are the only gifts they receive.

Ulysses S. Grant had a middle name. It was Simpson.

Consultations preliminary to possible refiling of a city request for a federal sewage treatment plant grant were conducted in Columbus Wednesday among City Manager James F. Parkinson, City Councilman Walter Morrow, G. A. Hall engineer secretary of the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board, and engineers in charge of reviewing applications for federal assistance.

Although pollution control authorities, in granting the most recent extension of a permit to discharge partially treated sewage plant effluent into Paint Creek, placed Washington C. H. under orders to contract for expansion of present treatment facilities despite refusal of a requested federal grant of $159,000, the city is seeking more time to complete a new financing program.

This probably would mean elimination of some construction originally planned by the city, under its present $535,000 program, but both Parkinson and Morrow are optimistic the State Health Department and the Water Pollution Control Board will consent to renewal of the effluent permit beyond its March 15 expiration date.

* * *

IF ACTUAL construction can be postponed until after July 1, the beginning of a new federal fiscal year, the city might be in line for assistance under a new allocation of funds for sewage treatment facilities.

In the meantime, the city will attempt to work out a financing program under the new schedule of sewer rates which will become effecive Jan. 1. The new rates, it is estimated, will increase sewer revenues from $42,000 to approximately $70,000 annually.

The city is not at present in a favorable position to issue bonds for this purpose because the amount of increased revenue is only an estimate — not a solid figure.

Engineers of both the Health Department and the pollution control agency were cooperative in their discussions with Parkinson and Morrow, but the city would be subject to a fine of $500 per day if the WPCB should refuse to extend the Paint Creek permit beyond March 15.

The judging will take place Monday night. The Jaycees request that all homes entered in the contest be lighted all evening so that the committee of judges may view the decorations at their best.

Two prizes will be awarded in each of the city four wards. An additional best - in - the - city award also will be given.

The city's best decorated home will be photographed in color and the home will be entered in the annual General Electric Co. nation - wide contest. This contest offers $5,000 in prizes for the best decorated homes across the country.

All entries will be judged on a 100 point basis: artistic merit— 30 points; originality— 20 points; lighting technique — 30 points, and ingenuity — 20 points.

All homes to be entered in the contest must be registered on the above official entry blank. And all blanks must be in the Chamber of Commerce office, 125½ N. Fayette St., by noon Monday.

Christmas Spirit At BPW Meeting

Business Gives Way To Holiday Program

The Christmas spirit overshadowed all else at Tuesday night's dinner meeting of the Washington C. H. Business and Professional Women's Club at the Country Club.

The customary business meeting was limited to a brief report on the part the club had taken in the Christmas observance at Mt. Logan Sanatorium, Chillicothe. Miss Helen Slavens, committee chairman, told the club that 92 gaily wrapped gifts had been taken to the patients there and that contributions amounting to $50 in cash had been used to buy candy and cigarettes for them, too.

Mrs. Marian Gage entertained throughout the dinner with electric organ music and the BPW choir, directed by Mrs. Dorothy Hummell, a former resident of Washington C. H. who now lives in Columbus, sang "Virgin Slumber Song" and "O. Holy Night." Members of the choir are Mrs. Jerry Dray, Mrs. Mindonna Kimmey, Mrs. George Stitt, Mrs. George O'Briant, Miss Jean Everhart and Mrs. Mary Gillespie. The choir also sang the descant for "Adeste Fidelestes."

HAL SUMMERS, who took the role of Santa Claus for the gift exchange which followed the program sang "O, Little Town of Behlehem" and "What Child Is This?"

Two little girls, Mary Jo Hyer and Nancy Jo West, also entertained the group with a dance number.

Two guests at the meeting were Mrs. Evelyn West and Mrs. Eldon Long of Jeffersonville.

The program was arranged by the music committee headed by Mrs. George Stitt. Other members of the committee were Mrs. Ralph Yerian, Mrs. Walter Hays, Mrs. Manetta Ramsay, Mrs. Frank Hyer, Mrs. Jerry Dray, Miss Jean Everhart, Mrs. Mary Gillespie and Mrs. Dorothy Hummell.

1927 Christmas Card Still Making Rounds

LOS ANGELES (AP) — That battered Christmas card the Reina brothers have been exchanging since 1927 makes another trip across town this holiday season. John Reina originally bought the card and sent it to his brother Jim who sent it back the next Christmas.

Ike Pleased By Results of NATO Parley

PARIS (AP)—President Eisenhower today was credited with a personal triumph in winning unanimous NATO support for the principle of establishing European missile bases and nuclear warhead stockpiles.

The President was reported to be unquestionably pleased by the outcome of a situation which could have turned out disastrously for American prestige.

Eisenhower arranged to return to Washington on his plane, the Columbine III, late today. He was due in the U. S. capital about 6:30 a. m. Friday.

The President and Secretary of State Dulles, who is going home by way of Spain, are scheduled to make a 30-minute radio-TV report to the American people on the conference Monday night. All U. S. networks will carry it.

Eisenhower's aides described him as happy about the outcome of the conference, but no one in the American delegation was claiming an all-out U. S. victory.

Only three nations (Britain, Turkey and the Netherlands) have agreed to accept missiles.

Failure to win a NATO agreement to take American missiles could have had a devastating impact at a time when the United States is seeking to revitalize the Atlantic Alliance and bolster the free world's defenses against Soviet space advances.

Courts

SUIT FOR $4,965 FILED

M. C. Ortman, 227 N. Main St., has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Burton E. Park and Irene A. Park of Jeffersonville for $4,965.36, with 6 per cent interest from Dec. 4, 1957, he claims is due him on a promissory note for $4,600 executed May 1, 1953. The note is secured, the petition states, by a mortgage on a lot in Jeffersonville. The suit claims the monthly payments on the note are in default more than 30 days.

More than 40 thousand aliens each month try to enter the United States illegally from Mexico and Canada and are turned back by the border patrol.

Christmas Party Held by Grange

Potluck Supper Precedes Business

Master Glen Whittington conducted the business meeting which was preceded by a potluck dinner. Whittington thanked all those who had contributed blood to the Red Cross blood bank and announced that the mobile X-ray unit will visit Washington C. H. Jan. 6 to 16 under sponsorship of the Fayette County Tuberculosis and Health Assn. He urged all Granger to take advantage of the services of the services offered by the mobile unit.

The Grange charter was draped in memory of two late members, Miss Clara B. Rowland and Clyde Garringer.

Four donations were approved by the members. The PTO was grant $10 to help with needy families this Christmas; $5 was turned over to the Grange Youth Fund and $5 for a TB bond.

A demit was granted Mr. and Mrs. Stephan Tway.

Mrs. Harry Rains was named chairman of the community service contest and it was voted to cooperate with Pomono Grange in observing Rural Life Sunday next spring.

Mrs. John Rowland began the evenng's entertainment by reading an article on the observance of the 90th birthday of the Grange. She also read a poem "Just for Christmas."

Neil Rowland sang "God Bless Thee, Merry Gentlemen."

Mrs. William Dunn and Mrs. Everett Rife each gave a Christmas reading and the meeting was closed with a prayer by Conrad Hilton.

Sanatorium Patients Get Christmas Gifts

Two Fayette County organizations have made it a part of their Yuletide activities to see that every Fayette County tubercular patient in a hospital is remembered with gifts and treats this year.

The Fayette County TB and Health Assn. next Sunday will send a package containing pajamas and shaving materials to two men patients at Mt. Logan Sanatorium, Chillicothe. A special gift of a radio with car phones will be sent for a patient who has difficulty with hearing. Another patient at the Ohio State Tubercular Hospital at Columbus will be remembered with gifts as will still another at the Veterans Hospital at Dayton.

The Business and Professional Women's club here last Sunday, sent 92 special "treats" along with gift packages for every patient at the Mt. Logan Sanatorium. The committee on public offairs for this organization made th trip to Chillicothe to personally present the Christmas remembrances. Some of these patients have no families or other relatives and these, in many cases, are the only gifts they receive.

Ulysses S. Grant had a middle name. It was Simpson.

Consultations preliminary to possible refiling of a city request for a federal sewage treatment plant grant were conducted in Columbus Wednesday among City Manager James F. Parkinson, City Councilman Walter Morrow, G. A. Hall engineer secretary of the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board, and engineers in charge of reviewing applications for federal assistance.

Although pollution control authorities, in granting the most recent extension of a permit to discharge partially treated sewage plant effluent into Paint Creek, placed Washington C. H. under orders to contract for expansion of present treatment facilities despite refusal of a requested federal grant of $159,000, the city is seeking more time to complete a new financing program.

This probably would mean elimination of some construction originally planned by the city, under its present $535,000 program, but both Parkinson and Morrow are optimistic the State Health Department and the Water Pollution Control Board will consent to renewal of the effluent permit beyond its March 15 expiration date.

* * *

IF ACTUAL construction can be postponed until after July 1, the beginning of a new federal fiscal year, the city might be in line for assistance under a new allocation of funds for sewage treatment facilities.

In the meantime, the city will attempt to work out a financing program under the new schedule of sewer rates which will become effecive Jan. 1. The new rates, it is estimated, will increase sewer revenues from $42,000 to approximately $70,000 annually.

The city is not at present in a favorable position to issue bonds for this purpose because the amount of increased revenue is only an estimate — not a solid figure.

Engineers of both the Health Department and the pollution control agency were cooperative in their discussions with Parkinson and Morrow, but the city would be subject to a fine of $500 per day if the WPCB should refuse to extend the Paint Creek permit beyond March 15.
